

United Nations Employees Told To Stay Loyal

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.N. employees, including 1,556 Americans, were told today to put loyalty to the U.N. above loyalty to their own countries.

They were warned at the same time to steer clear of revolutionary activity aimed at the forcible overthrow of any government—and even of "active criticism of a government."

The advice was given in a new 16-page handbook on behavior titled, "Report on Standards of Conduct in the International Civil Service."

Over 10,000 Affected
The report came from the nine-member International Civil Service Advisory Board, a permanent body created by the 1946 General Assembly.

It was directed at the 5,187 employees of the U.N. here and abroad and the 5,000 or so employees of 10 affiliated specialized agencies in Washington, Montreal, Paris, Rome, Geneva and Bern. Latest figures from the U.S. mission here indicate 1,556 American citizens are employed by the U.N. and 753 by the specialized agencies.

In case of any conflict between national and international loyalties, the report said, "the conduct of the international civil servant must clearly reflect his obligation to the international organization."

"Any appearance of disloyalty to that organization," it added, "must be considered incompatible with his status."

Take It Or Quit
The staff member will find this idea easier to take, it cleared, if he reflects that, "from the long-range point of view, legitimate national interests can only be served by... the successful progress of the international organizations" toward world peace and prosperity.

If he can't take it, the report went on, he should quit.

All staff members, the manual emphasized, "are, during their period of service, international officials" and "must clearly understand that they are not, in any sense, representatives of a national government or of a national policy."

The board had this further advice for international civil servants:

- (1) "Try to understand and be tolerant of different points of view... to work without prejudice or bias with persons of all nationalities, religions and cultures." (U.N. employees are drawn from 70 countries.)
 - (2) "Vote if you want but don't run for office and don't express yourself publicly on 'matters of a controversial nature.'"
 - (3) "Your private life is your own, but don't behave so as to bring discredit on the organization you serve or offend the community you live in."
- The board has been preparing the report since mid-1952. Its chairman is Thanassis Agnides of Greece.

Big Dairy Show On In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—The second annual International Dairy Show opened today with more than 2,000 blooded dairy cattle valued at four million dollars participating.

A huge parade which included beauty queens, bands, dairy cattle, rodeo cowboys and farm implements rolled through Chicago's Loop as the kickoff for the eight-day show at the International Amphitheater.

The pick of dairy show herds of the United States and Canada will compete for the show's top awards. Included among the entries are many champions of 1954 state and county fairs. They include the five dairy breeds and milking shorthorns, the latter known as dual purpose cattle for their yield of both beef and milk.

Exhibitors are from 27 states and the Canadian provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

Russian Account Of Attack On U.S. Plane Branded Lie

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States today accused Russia of having "willfully and knowingly" lied about the shooting down of an American B-50 bomber over the Sea of Japan in July, 1953. It filed a formal damage claim for $2,785,492.94.

At the same time the United States challenged Russia — if the Communists deny liabilities for the damages — to join in taking the dispute to the International Court of Justice.

Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen delivered the 17-page American note to the Soviet foreign office in Moscow today.

In Washington, the State Department made the note public and announced that U. N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. has been instructed to circulate the text among the members of the U.N. Security Council.

It was the second time that the United States resorted to this extraordinary procedure in pressing what is clearly a campaign to get satisfaction from the Soviet Union for the destruction of American aircraft. The first instance was two weeks ago when Washington asked some 14 million dollars for a B-29 shot down off northern Japan in October, 1952.

There have been a number of cases where Soviet fighters attacked U. S. planes near Russian borders.

The incident in today's formal diplomatic note occurred on July 29 last year and resulted in 16 Americans dead or missing.

Fuss made the statement at a town meeting debate called by the association to muster opposition to the Michigan toll road program. About 200 persons attended the meeting.

Authority members declined to attend, saying "no good purpose would be served." William E. Slaughter, authority chairman, also said previous out-of-town engagements prevented his attendance.

Fuss suggested turnpike opponents ask Gov. Williams to call a special session of the state legislature to hold up the proposed toll road program and consider a proposed $500,000,000 bond issue for new free roads.

Fuss said a one cent increase in the state gasoline tax would finance the $500,000,000 bonded debt.

The additional one cent gas tax, he said, would bring in at least $20,000,000 a year.

"With that program," Fuss said, "we could do everything the Michigan Turnpike Authority claims it can do and we'd still have control over all roads."

Stork Beats Cabbie With His Own Wife

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Cab driver James Kramer's first passenger Friday told him to step on the gas. It was his wife and she was about to have a baby.

Kramer, 23, had just left for work when his 20-year-old wife, Wanda, shouted out of a window: "Jimmy, come back! I think it's time!"

When they pulled up at South Side Hospital Kramer got out of the cab with an 8-pound, 12-ounce baby girl—their first child. Both mother and baby are doing well.

Police Nab 26 Young Philadelphia Rowdies

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Twenty-six youths were arrested Friday night after an outbreak of rowdiness in which a gang took over operation of a street car and terrorized three passengers.

Twenty-three, who gave their ages as under 18, were removed to the youth study center. The three others were charged with disorderly conduct and held for hearings.

Eisenhower Stresses Need Of Teamwork In Congress

Crime Reporting Of Newspapers Draws Criticism

By JOHN BARBOUR
ANN ARBOR (AP)—A lawyer criticized newspaper crime reporting and a newspaper publisher defended it in an exchange of views from the same platform at the University Press Club of Michigan Friday.

Charles W. Joiner, University of Michigan professor of law speaking for the Michigan Bar Assn., said newspaper accounts of trials "often influence the jury beyond the evidence in court."

Press Has Responsibility
"In some cases it has denied an individual a fair trial," Prof. Joiner said. "Sometimes even the state has been denied a fair trial."

Harold A. Fitzgerald, publisher of the Pontiac Press, said in reply:

"It seems to me democracy is on trial instead of the press. You can't suppress the right to talk to the American people."

"In a jury today," Fitzgerald added, "apparently you want to get a person who knows nothing about everything."

Fitzgerald also defended newspaper responsibility and raised a question of the ethics of "the attorney who leaks evidence" to the press.

Headlines Cited
Prof. Joiner cited several headlines in the coverage of the recent Small case. He said one headline read, "Mrs. Small tells of giving $10,000 to boy friend." He said that none of this information was admitted as evidence in the court trial.

Dr. Kenneth B. Small was acquitted by reason of temporary insanity of a murder charge in the slaying of his wife's lover at a trial in Allegheny July 17.

Fitzgerald said it would be very difficult to find a jury that could approach a case without any feelings or prejudices whatsoever.

'Good Boy' Accused Of Killing Child, 4, And Baby-Sitter, 14

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—The "boy around the corner" pleaded innocent today to two murder charges in the brutal stab-slayings of a 14-year-old baby-sitter and her four-year-old charge.

Tall, 18-year-old Kenneth R. Chapin responded in a clear voice, "not guilty" to the two charges of murder read out in the district court room by clerk James Lovett.

Judge John M. Noonan ordered Chapin held without bail for hearing Oct. 19.

The boy's father, Theodore E. Chapin, Springfield armory electrician, sat in a front row during the brief arraignment. The father's eyes were tear-filled as he watched his oldest child arraigned.

The boy glanced at his father, but they did not speak to each other.

The high school sophomore looked tired and his hair was tousled as two policemen led him into the courtroom.

Power Contract Shelved Until After Election

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Dixon-Yates contract was on the shelf until after election today "at the suggestion," the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee said, "of members representing both political parties."

This was the committee's wording Friday in wiring its 18 members there'll be no public hearings next Wednesday, as had been planned, on the much-disputed private power proposal.

Instead, it suggested the hearings be rescheduled for Nov. 4—two days after the elections. It said "an overwhelming number" of the legislators found their campaigning duties too heavy to hold hearings now.

The contract provides that the Dixon-Yates private utility group build a plant to send electric power through Tennessee Valley Authority public power lines.

The Senate already is scheduled to meet in special session Nov. 8 on the move to censure Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Some Republican senators said privately they were more than pleased by news of the Dixon-Yates postponement. They said they had considered it would be a mistake to provide such a forum for foes, particularly Democrats, of the proposal.

Sen. Cavanaugh (D-Tenn.), a leading critic of the contract, applauded the postponement and said "I think the hearing got too hot for them to handle before the elections."

First Negro Judge Named In Michigan

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan's Circuit Court bench is going to have its first Negro judge.

He is Wade H. McCree Jr., 34, Detroit lawyer. McCree was appointed by Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams Friday night to the second highest judiciary in the state. Only the state Supreme Court is higher.

McCree is a veteran of World War II combat service. A native of Des Moines, Iowa, he was educated at Fisk University and Harvard Law School.

McCree was appointed to fill the vacancy left by the death of circuit Judge Adolph F. Marschner.

Youths Attack Mother; Go To Electric Chair

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Two 16-year-old Negroes face death in the electric chair for the rape of a housewife in front of her three small children.

Judge Coleman Lindsey Friday sentenced Carl Jackson and Wilbert Smith to death. They were charged with escaping from the State Industrial School for colored youth at Scotlandville, three miles north of Baton Rouge, and attacking a Baker housewife June 21.

The two gained admission to the woman's house by asking for a glass of water.

President Asks 2 More Years Of GOP Control

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower, vigorously pressing the Republican campaign for continued control of Congress, declared Friday night he foresees "a cold war of partisan politics" if the Democrats take over.

Speaking to a nationwide television-radio audience and a cheering capacity crowd of 5,500 persons at a GOP rally in Denver Auditorium after getting a report from party congressional leaders on their plans to step up the campaign tempo, the President said: "History shows that when the executive and legislative branches are politically in conflict, politics in Washington runs riot."

Cheers take Up Time
The President was interrupted at least 42 times by applause, which helped to run his TV-radio address overtime and caused him to be cut off the air about a half minute before he completed his text.

The 30-minute program carried by 158 TV channels and 534 radio stations from coast to coast was paid for by the GOP National Committee, and the networks held to the time limit.

In New York, a spokesman for CBS said stopping transmission at the end of paid political time was "in line with long standing procedure," but he said he didn't know if it had been done before in the case of a President.

From Los Angeles, however, came word Eisenhower was cut off Sept. 23 when he ran over four minutes while speaking on a radio-TV hookup at a Hollywood Bowl rally. Broadcasting spokesmen in Los Angeles also said they cut Eisenhower as they would any sponsored program.

Can't Have Two Drivers

In his Denver speech, Eisenhower, cautioning about what he called the dangers of a November election outcome putting Congress under Democratic rule and leaving the White House Republican, declared:

"You know perfectly well that you just can't have one car with two drivers at the steering wheel and expect to end up any place but the ditch—especially when the drivers are set on going in different directions."

Eisenhower said voters who put the Republican administration in power in 1952 "got results" they wanted, and he appealed for two more years of GOP control of Congress.

Office Boy, 68, Leaves $150,000

CHICAGO (AP)—Relatives and friends of a 68-year-old office boy were surprised Friday when they learned the amount of his estate, an estimated $150,000.

The wealth of John W. Nelson was disclosed by investigators for the Cook County coroner's office who had gone to his room searching for a cemetery lot deed.

They found bank books showing savings accounts totaling $16,000 and a key to a safe deposit in a loop bank. In the bank box were 17 different stock issues valued at about $120,000, $6,900 in cash, and $6,300 in United States savings bonds. No will was found.

Nelson, a bachelor, died Tuesday of a heart attack. His funeral was to be held today.

Nelson was a roomer and boarder at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Swanson for 18 years. Mrs. Swanson said he paid her $12 a week for 15 years and complained when she increased the charge to $16 three years ago.

Mrs. Swanson said Nelson had worn one suit for years, mending it from time to time. She said he told her he "could not afford it" when she suggested that he dress better. Mrs. Swanson said Nelson had no women friends and would not answer when she asked why he had not married.

Frank Winter, Nelson's second cousin, said Nelson had no closer relative than first cousin. Winter said Nelson's wealth came as a complete surprise and that relatives had regarded him as a "poor cousin." He said Nelson's father was a Lake Michigan sailor who was not wealthy.

Premier Stakes Life Of French Cabinet On German Rearmament

By CARL HARTMAN
PARIS (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France turned to the nation today for support of his demand that Parliament give him a vote of confidence on the London plan for German rearmament.

He planned at least one radio talk and a concerted effort to whip balking deputies into line before the issue comes to a vote Tuesday in the National Assembly.

Only One Choice
Dramatically halting what threatened to become an all-night debate, Mendes-France told the assembly Friday midnight it must either agree to the nine-nation plan or get a new government.

Staking the life of his Cabinet on the results of the vote, he warned deputies that if they voted him out they might have to face new national elections.

The London agreements would permit West German rearmament as part of an expanded Brussels treaty organization and would give the West Germans full membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance. They were drafted as substitute for the French-rejected European Defense Community Plan.

Tearful Frenchmen Turn Hanoi Over To Communist Forces

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The French pulled out of Hanoi today, in advance of Communist-led Vietnamese occupation forces.

French colonial soldiers brushed away tears as the tricolor, which had flown almost unbroken over the city 71 years, was lowered for the last time.

The last French withdrew in orderly fashion according to plan.

Automobiles Kill 7 In Michigan

(By The Associated Press)
Traffic accidents took at least seven lives in Michigan in opening hours of the second October weekend.

Two victims, a 67-year-old Jackson woman and a 16-year-old Muskegon boy, were pedestrians.

Loren Smith, 16, of Muskegon, was killed and two young companions seriously hurt as they walked along South Sheridan Drive in Muskegon township Friday night.

Mrs. Marie M. Beall, 67, of Jackson, was brushed by two cars and fatally injured by a third as she attempted to walk across US-127, a mile north of Jackson, Friday night.

Anthony Lenewski, was killed in the collision of his automobile and a truck in Redford township, just outside the Detroit city limits.

J. T. Brandon, Ypsilanti, was fatally injured in a collision on Tuttle Friday night.

Douglas Campbell, 67, of Sandusky, and Mrs. Julia Allen, 65, of Crosswell, died in a collision of two cars near Yale in St. Clair county.

Warren Nykamp, 17, Holland, was killed and six teen-age companions were hurt in a collision on US-31 north of Holland.

Church Janitor Jailed For Saving Up Whisky

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Living close to a whisky distillery was just too much temptation for James Riggs, a janitor at a Bardonia Baptist church.

When the distillery emptied a barrel and put it aside, the father of 11 children would get the few drops remaining in the bottom.

Finally, drop by drop, he built up a reserve of eight gallons of whisky. But officers found it in his home.

After pleading guilty in federal court Friday, Riggs was sentenced to six months in jail for illegal possession of liquor.

Mendes-France took a tough line with the assembly, which has held up German rearmament since 1950.

Deputies Lukewarm
He told the deputies he would accept no resolution beyond simple endorsement of the London agreements and his own speeches in the debate. The issue, he said, was one of confidence in his government.

In his plea for national unity, Mendes-France appealed for the support of those who had favored the EDC plan. Many EDC proponents have expressed reservations about the new defense scheme.

"It is a law of life," the premier said, "that nature does not move in jumps. The unification of a continent is something that takes a long time. We made progress toward building a united Europe at London."

Although some of Mendes-France's arguments hit home, the deputies showed little enthusiasm. Most of them were obviously depressed at the thought of voting for the rearmament of Germany, which has invaded France three times since 1870.

There was no confusion. The Vietnamese, with whom the French fought a bitter seven-year war, started edging toward the city at dawn. By midafternoon they were in possession of Bac Mai, the big military airport on the outskirts. At nightfall they were in the suburbs.

Tomorrow, the red gold-starred Vietnamese flag will fly over Hanoi under terms of the July 21 Geneva Armistice agreement, which turned over the northern half of Viet Nam to the Reds.

Two platoons of Algerian Spahis fired a farewell round over the grave of Capt. Henri Riviere.

Riviere and Ens. Francis Garnier were the conquerors of Hanoi in the closing years of the last century. Garnier, who first took Hanoi, died in 1873 at the hands of the Chinese Black Pavilion Society, which coveted the city for the Chinese emperor. Riviere, who won the area for the French after Garnier's death, fell 10 years later in the city's defense.

Harvest Stalled By Wet Weather

LANSING — Prolonged and heavy rains have stalled Michigan's harvest and caused undetermined damage to field beans, the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service said.

Michigan's heaviest rain of the year fell in southern and central Michigan during the past week.

The service said corn is well advanced and most of the crop is safe from serious frost damage.

Wet weather and wet soil have slowed completion of silo filling. Some corn is being picked for current feeding but will need dry weather before picking becomes general, the service said.

The field bean harvest has been stopped by rains. Windrowed beans were reported to have been damaged severely and many will be abandoned. Standing beans also were hurt and the pick increased sharply. About 70 per cent of the crop has been pulled.

The potato harvest was underway in the late potato areas, but was stopped by the rains. The sugar beet harvest also was underway and will be general as soon as soils dry.

Much of the winter wheat acreage is planted and up to a good start, the service said.

The cauliflower harvest is underway and the harvest continues on cabbage, tomatoes and other late truck crops. The fruit harvest is about ended except for late apples and grapes.

Letters To The Editor

"BIBLICAL TONGUES"

Editor,
Daily Press,
Escanaba, Mich.

Dear Sir:

On page 5 Oct. 6, 1954 of the Daily Press you carried a brief article "Biblical Tongues". There you state that the Old Testament of the Bible was originally written in the Hebrew language and the New Testament in the Greek. This statement is historically correct. However, then you add, "with the exception of the Gospel of St. Matthew, which also was written in Hebrew." The latter statement regarding the Gospel of St. Matthew is historically not correct. St. Matthew was written in the Greek language as was the balance of the New Testament. It is true, there was a Hebrew translation of the Gospel of St. Matthew at a very early date; however, the Greek of St. Matthew was the original and not the Hebrew. (For further reference consult e. g. Ecclesiastical Encyclopedia by Dr. Carl Meusel Vol. IV, pages 500f.)

Yours very truly,
Rev. Theophil Hoffmann.

Registration Opens Oct. 20 For Adult Education Classes

The Escanaba Adult Education program will hold its annual registration, Wednesday, Oct. 20, starting at 7:30 p. m., in the Junior High School gymnasium. The registration desks will be open for two hours, according to Vernon Ihlenfeldt, director.

There will be four new courses offered. Silk screen printing, party and holiday decoration, color photography for still cameras, and high school and college credit correspondence courses.

Silk screen printing will give the individual an opportunity to make greeting cards, wrapping paper and other things of their own design. It will also incorporate students' own designs in linoleum blocks to pattern textiles. This class is open to both men and women. The instructor is Dennis Foltman and the class will be held at the Technical School on Monday evenings from 7 to 10.

Another new course is color photography for still cameras. This is going to be one of the finest courses on this subject ever offered in this area. J. L. Temby has put much work in preparing for this series and assembling the materials. There will be prizes given at the end of the course to those taking the best pictures. This class will be held Monday evenings in Room 169 of the Junior High School, starting at 7:30.

Party and holiday decoration is as the name implies. Miss Lois Pearson, the instructor, has a large number of new ideas for use in the coming holiday season. This class meets on Mondays in Room 260 of the Junior High School starting at 7:30. This course is for six weeks.

High School and college credit correspondence courses provide one of the most convenient methods of obtaining a high school diploma or some extra college credits. The instructor, Clarence Zerpel, has all the information concerning the courses available and the cost of each. Monday will be the meeting night of this class, in Room 263 of the Junior High School, starting at 7:30.

Mrs. Victoria Cretens, 567 N. 9th St., Gladstone, was the third prize winner in the open division of the Daily Press essay contest and Carol Jean Peterson, age 14, of 1031 Sheridan Road, student at Holy Name High School, was the third prize winner in the student division.

Their prize winning essays follow:

My daily newspaper is our fair city's reading habit and is also number one on my hit parade.

I overheard one of the subscribers to our newspaper say: "I always read the Escanaba Daily Press from beginning to end, including the obituary column."

Within the development of the telegraph, telephone, and radio, facilities for news-gathering have become extremely efficient. My daily newspaper is supported primarily by their advertising.

My newspaper is a publication issued daily and which contains significant news, both social and financial, beneficial advertisements, dramatic criticisms, and also editorials, which are introduced with dignity, and timely matters of public interest that is taking place in our world of today.

I think my daily newspaper is educational, especially in its important news column.

It provides many special services for readers as well as for advertisers. It also points out the importance of current news articles as a help in the study of the social, economic and political trends of the day.

cyclopedia of current events, both world-wide and local.

It means, that I, who am living in the confines of a small area in this great world of ours, can feel that I am a world traveler via my daily newspaper.

It takes me to the far corners of the world, giving a clear picture of all the happenings and history-making events.

It is my Shopping Guide and shows me where to make my dollars and cents go the farthest and without having to wear myself out looking for bargains or the things I want.

The classified columns are a boon to everyone wanting to buy or sell something.

We can follow all the sports, national and local, and our local weather reports can keep us pretty well informed as to whether we should attend the game with raincoat or not.

Our daily newspaper gives us a chance for a better insight into politics. We can learn much about our candidates for office.

At a glance I can see just what entertainment suits me. There are the movie advertisements, T.V. and Radio guide. There are the church announcements, birth, marriages, obituaries, personal news items, medical items. Women's page, editorials. Everything to keep me in touch with everyday happenings.

What more can I want, than what is contained in my own daily newspaper?

It has EVERYTHING to keep us informed of what is going on around us and we can be thankful for the freedom of the press in giving us truthful unbiased accounts of events as they are. Many thanks for our daily newspaper.

Chest X-Rays To Open On Tuesday

Free chest x-rays will be offered the people of Delta and Menominee Counties in a continuing tuberculosis control program sponsored by the Delta-Menominee District Health Department, local Medical Societies, Michigan Department of Health and the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

Dr. William C. Harrison, director of the Delta-Menominee Health District, urged residents of the two counties to avail themselves of the opportunity to obtain a free chest x-ray examination.

He described tuberculosis as "an undercover operator" that sneaks up on you without warning symptoms. The state's modern mobile x-ray machines tracks down the disease in its early stages, when it is most quickly cured.

To have your chest x-rayed it is not necessary to undress. There is no discomfort and the chest examination takes only a few minutes. A report will be mailed to each person.

Delta County

The schedule of the mobile x-ray units in the two counties is as follows:

Tuesday, Oct. 12, noon to 8 p.m.—Garden Village; Rock High School.

Oct. 13, noon to 8 p.m.—Rapid River; Escanaba Paper Mill.

Oct. 14—Bark River Community Building, noon to 8 p.m.; Gladstone, Seibert's Hardware, noon to 6 p.m.

Oct. 15—Gladstone, Seibert's Hardware, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Oct. 18—Gladstone, noon to 8 p.m., same location.

Oct. 19, 21, 22, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29—Escanaba, Home Supply Store.

$20,000 Verdict In Perronville Rail Death Case

MARQUETTE — A verdict of $20,000 against the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railroad Company was returned by a jury in U. S. District Court for Northern Michigan at Marquette Friday in a suit growing out of a fatal accident near Perronville on Oct. 24, 1950.

The double verdict awarded $10,939.98 to Mrs. Deloris Goich, Green Bay, widow of Daniel Goich, who was killed in the accident and $9,060.02 to the Employers Mutual Liability Insurance Company of Wausau. The insurance company award represented a refund for compensation payments made in Goich's death.

Goich was a passenger in a Red Owl Company truck which was struck by a Soo Line train at a crossing on Delta County Road 535 near Perronville. The truck driver, Harold Vannienwenhoven, Green Bay, was also killed.

The case was heard earlier this week before U.S. Judge W. Wallace Kent, Kalamazoo, who was recently appointed to the bench when the Western Michigan District was awarded an additional judge. The jury deliberated more than 24 hours in reaching a verdict.

CELERY GROWERS INVENT PICKER — Garrett Lubbers and his sons, Jay and Bernard, are harvesting 70 acres of celery near Kalamazoo with a machine they have perfected. Producers have dreamed of such a machine ever since Cornelius DeBruyn introduced the crop in the 1800's. The Lubbers and their field workers sit aboard $2,000 worth of parts moulded into their mechanical marvel and trim the celery as it tumbles aboard. There is no stooping and hacking with a celery knife. Here a worker gathers trimmed celery from a conveyor belt at the rear of the machine. (AP Photo)

Crystal Falls Man Fatally Injured In Hunting Mishap

MARQUETTE — The first fatality of the small game hunting season in the Upper Peninsula was reported Friday by the Conservation Department's regional headquarters here.

The victim was Axel E. Anderson, about 35, a rural mail carrier who resided in Crystal Falls. His body was found by a searching party around 11 o'clock last night north of Liver Lake in Iron County.

Conservation and law enforcement officials assume Anderson was hunting alone for partridge and possibly tripped, causing his single-barrel, 16-gauge shotgun to discharge, the charge striking him below the heart.

To date, two non fatal firearms accidents have been reported to the regional headquarters here since the small game season opened on Oct. 1. Howard Amel, Sault Ste. Marie, had his scalp grazed by shot when a gun was accidentally discharged while he was hunting ducks. Robert E. Anderson, 19, Iron Mountain, shot a toe off his right foot when he accidentally pulled the trigger of his shotgun while walking in an area 10 miles north of Hardwood in Dickinson County.

Chiropractic Care Of Children

Many are the people who have benefitted from Chiropractic. But many of these same people believe that Chiropractic is only beneficial to adults and they couldn't be farther from the truth. One reason for this misconception is the accepted idea that Chiropractic is only valuable in cases of nervous disorder but not in cases apparently not of nervous origin. I say apparently not of nervous origin, since the average person does not realize that practically every disease of the human body is a result of the inability of some nerve to carry vital force from the brain to the afflicted part.

Experience has shown that children respond to Chiropractic far more readily than adults. It has been found effective in many so-called childhood diseases such as colic, croup, fever, indigestion, stuttering, bed-wetting and other abnormal conditions.

Many times babies are injured at birth, particularly in cases of instrumental deliveries. These conditions might also be a result of a fall, twisting, or jolts of any kind. Whatever the cause, the result is almost certain to affect the child's entire life if not corrected.

Why not assure your child of good health. Vibrant health is the result of keeping the spine aligned. On the other hand neglecting the spine, not only can result in childhood diseases, but later in life such neglect could lead to many of the ailments common among adults. See that your child makes the acquaintance of your Chiropractor. It is never too soon but make certain it is too late.

Editorials—

Leonard Is Making Heavy Gains In His Campaign For Governor

FROM one end of Michigan to the other, Donald S. Leonard, the Republican candidate for governor, has been campaigning with a vigor that far surpasses anything that his predecessors of the past dozen years has shown.

Leonard is devoting all time to the job of unseating Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams who is seeking an unprecedented fourth term. And Leonard is making friends wherever he goes.

The former commander of the Michigan State Police is a dynamic personality with a record of achievement as an executive that is terrific.

The political analysts are certain that Leonard has the qualities that are needed to defeat Gov. Williams. He will bring out the usual heavy Republican majorities outside because he is popular with the rank and file of Republicans. And, as a native Detroitier with strong popularity in his home town, Leonard stands an excellent chance of pulling down the voting strength of Gov. Williams in Wayne County.

Williams has had two very narrow squeaks in his last two elections. A shift of only a very few votes is all that is needed to elect a Republican governor to work with the certain Republican majorities in both houses of the legislature. It has always been Wayne County that delivered the governorship to Williams. The governor has always been defeated in the total vote of the counties outside of Wayne but heavy majorities in populous Wayne have overcome the outstate deficits for Williams. It may be different this time because the home town popularity of Leonard will very likely cut heavily into the Williams vote in Wayne County.

Leonard is stressing in his campaign the desirability of having a Republican governor to work in cooperation with the Republican Legislature. It is an effective argument because this viewpoint is borne out by the experiences of the past. Political bickering between the Democratic governor and Republican Legislature has been costly to Michigan.

Once the leading state in the union in tourist trade, Michigan has dropped its leadership to several states that have been more progressive in this field. The importance of this to the Upper Peninsula, of course, is recognized by everyone who lives in this region.

Words, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

Here is an unusual switch on our weekend word game. Today, in place of the customary ten terms chosen from the category of "Words We'd Like to Know and Use," the test is based on ten items from the lively lingo of today's teen-agers.

In scoring, adults receive an automatic handicap of four points. In other words, a person over 21 years of age (a "prehistoric" to teen-agers) scores perfect if he gets as many as 6 answers correct. Even a truly "hep" teenager will be lucky to get more than eight right the first time.

Remember that we are following the usual rules. Below are listed ten words or phrases. Your task is to put the appropriate term in one of the blanks in the ten sentences also given below. Correct answers follow the test—and don't peek!

(A) the flue; (B) make-out artist; (C) chuckling sheet; (D) Cloud Nine; (E) real spotty; (F) living doll; (G) sing up a storm; (H) cube; (I) a gone time and much of the most; (J) kick up a storm.

Try And Stop Me By BENNETT CERF

One unflinching mark of true "pros" in the theatre is their constant effort to better a performance, regardless of the accolades heaped upon their heads by the critics on opening night. Second-raters tend to become sloppy and indifferent as long-run hits ear the finish line, making audiences wonder what had made earlier viewers enthuse. Not so the real stars like Lunt and Fontanne, however.

Noel Coward tells of the final Saturday in the notable New York run of his biggest non-musical hit, "Design for Living." After the matinee, Lynn Fontanne announced delightedly that she finally had perfected one inconsequential bit of business that had stymied her from the beginning.

Coward chuckled. "A bit late in the day to tinker with this little number, isn't it?" he inquired.

"Not at all," Miss Fontanne reminded him sharply. "There's still tonight, isn't there?"

Mysteries of Life and Death

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

The Hebrew saints, prophets, and poets, who have tried to the world the heritage of the Old Testament, the thirty-nine books of our English Bible, faced the mysteries of life and death, of pain and suffering, with the same honest and courageous realism with which they recorded the acts and characters of men and women. They dared to portray even the national and historic heroes with their sins and shortcomings as well as in the strength and achievement that made them great.

And with the same zeal to know all the truth, they refused to gloss over the sad and perplexing experiences of life, suffering and death with shallow optimism and sentimentalism. They faced the facts with a quest for the meaning of it all, and a place for hope and faith, if hope and faith could be found.

It is thus that the Psalms particularly range through all the gamuts of human experience.

The Ninetieth Psalm is a concrete illustration of this. It begins with man's awe in the presence of God and the universe, it sounds a note of sad pessimism in the contemplation of suffering, sin, disaster, and the shortness of life, and the fear of God in wrath and anger. It is man's rebelliousness in his first and honest reaction to death and trouble. Who has not felt it in the presence of sorrow and death?

But who, in that hour of deepest despair, has not found an answer? The Ninetieth Psalm rises to a profound note of faith, the satisfaction of God's mercy, rejoicing all our days, "the beauty of the Lord our God" and the establishment of the work of our hands—this last a passage to compare with the closing verses of St. Paul's Fifteenth of I Corinthians.

But it is in the great drama of the Book of Job that the mysteries of life, and especially the mystery of suffering, are faced with insight and power.

It must never be forgotten that the Book of Job is a drama, with various actors speaking their part. Dr. Richard G. Moulton, who in his Modern Reader's Bible has presented the various parts of the Bible in their modern literary form, has stressed the importance of this. He pictures a zealous, but underestimating Bible reader turning to the Book of Job for comfort, finding a supposed comfort in some passage chosen at random from a speech by one of the friends of Job, ignoring the fact that Job's friends are represented by the Lord, later in the drama, as "not having spoken of Me the thing that is right, as My servant Job hath" (Job 42:7).

With powerful setting the author sets forth Job as a victim of the deepest tragedy. His friends offer him the specious comfort that Job rejects.

What, then, is the solution? In a sense there is no solution, but the rejection of false and plausible theories, and reliance upon the faith and conviction: "Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right?" (Genesis 18:25) and Job's declaration, "Through he slay me, yet will I trust in Him" (Job 13:15).

Today And Tomorrow

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Now that the substitute EDC has been worked out, the prospects for solidarity in the West are brighter than they have been for a long time. Mr. Eden has achieved a brilliant success. He has done it by dealing directly and unequivocally with the crucial defect of EDC. The long four years of controversy, frustrating as they have been, had shown ever more clearly that a European system and the Franco-German reconciliation which is the keystone of such a system all depend upon Great Britain's resuming her historic role on the Continent. That role is to be the holder and the regulator of the balance of power.

Without Britain participating as a principal in the affairs of the Continent, the Germans are too strong for the security, for the independence and the equality, of their neighbors. When no one is strong enough to withstand the Germans, they are too strong for their own devotion to democracy and freedom. The German Democrats and Liberals know this from bitter experience. It is most significant that Dr. Adenauer is as pleased as Mr. Mendes-France with the British decision. For the British have given the strongest practical guaranty that the German Republic will be protected against a militarist reaction. That guaranty is the indispensable condition of any confidence in a Franco-German reconciliation.

ISSUES ARE DEEP

It has been said that since Britain has had no intention of withdrawing her troops from Germany, what she has done is to make an inexpensive gesture to reassure the excessively nervous French. The issues are deeper than that. There has been a strong opinion in the Pentagon and in Congress that when Germany was rearm-ed, the American troops in Germany could be reduced to token forces. This view was once attributed to Gen. Eisenhower himself though he has repudiated it since he became President. But it is a commonplace idea among the isolationist Republican Senators, and a year ago it reached the Chiefs of Staff and played a part in their famous "New Look."

As things stood until recently, an American withdrawal from Germany would probably have been followed by a British withdrawal—it having been British policy to keep close to and in step with the United States. Had this threat materialized, France would have been left alone inside Europe with the rearm-ed Germans. France, moreover, had a considerable part of her army engaged in Indo-China. That in the last analysis was why it was impossible for France to accept the EDC. Had it ever been ratified by some kind of squeeze play, the internal struggle against EDC would have continued to divide the French nation.

When Mr. Eden promised to keep the British army in Germany subject to a vote of the Brussels powers, he banished this nightmare. He put an end to the risk that France might be left alone with a rearm-ed and divided and discontented Germany. He also made it practically certain that Canada and the United States would also remain in Germany. Thus there can be no monkeying now with any kind of reappraisal which would build up Germany as the captain of Europe while we brought the boys back home.

SOLVES PROBLEM

It is no longer a threatening possibility that the Western continent would have a German army in the forward zone and a weaker French army behind it, while the British and the Americans were not really present at all to determine what went on in the forward zone. Now the West German army is to be formed within an enveloping coalition of armies. So far as the problem is soluble, this solves the problem of how to let Germany have an army for her own self-respect while preventing her from using that army as a political instrument of her own aggrieved nationalism. The new agreement contains all the precautions which were in EDC. But it has what EDC lacked, the sure presence of the British and the Americans to enforce the precautions.

The premise of the London construction is that the Soviet Union will not, and probably cannot, agree to the unification of Germany and the withdrawal of the Red army. This is the official consensus in high quarters in all the European capitals; and it has not been altered by anything that has happened since the death of Stalin. The working assumption is that German unification would raise insoluble problems for the Russians and very difficult problems for the Western powers, and that it will not come about soon through a four-power agreement.

For the Russians the unification of Germany would mean that Poland obtained a long frontier with the West, and as a result of that the means and the incentive to work for national liberation. If Stalin's successors are the big commanders, they are not likely to give up the strategic position inside Germany which enables them to remain the masters of Eastern Europe.

But German unification would also present many difficult problems to the West. The London agreements are naturally enough, silent about these difficulties. The practical assumption is that on both sides of the Iron Curtain "co-existence" is now taken to mean settling down and digging in to the line where Germany is now divided.

Chair-Borne Life Gets Blame In New Heart Trouble Theory

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON — (NEA)—The idea of giving up physical exercise, reading a lot and "getting plenty of rest" to stave off a fatal heart attack is being thrown out the window by doctors.

In fact, they are learning that's just the kind of life that brings on coronary heart trouble. This revolutionary change in the concept of treating and preventing the most fatal of heart diseases was revealed by Dr. Percy Stocks of North Wales at the recent International Congress of Clinical Pathology here.

Facts and figures which he has been gathering for the past 20 years on coronary disorders tell the following story:

The safest job a man can have today, as far as it offers protection from heart attack, is as a farm laborer. This is proven statistically among workers in England and is presumed to be the same in the U. S.

Reason for this is that the work is outside, regularly active and involves a minimum of mental strain.

As a man's work gets less physical and involves more mental strain, it gets more dangerous to his heart. Fatalities from coronary heart disorders are about twice as high among men doing office work as among men doing physical labor.

The surest way to commit suicide on the job is to work at a desk all the time, have responsibilities which keep you in a constant state of nervous tension and then be driven home in your car.

The increasing use of automobiles is directly proportional to the increase of deaths due to coronary heart disease.

The lack of physical exertion permits the circulatory system to deteriorate. And the nervous strain speeds up the process.

This same theory accounts for the oft-repeated case of the man who had led an extremely active life, retired, and then died of a heart attack two weeks later while napping in his hammock.

The collection of fatty substances on the lining of the arteries is a factor in coronary diseases. But there is growing evidence that simply poor mechanics of circulation are a greater cause of fatal coronary attacks than diet and blood chemistry.

"Circulation mechanics may determine whether a fatal obstruction will lodge in a large branch of the arterial network feeding the heart, or whether such a hazard will be by-passed for the less lethal condition of slow degeneration of the peripheral branches of the arterial system associated with old age," Dr. Stocks says.

Coronary disorders are less frequent among women than men. But since the war in England—and to some extent in the U. S.—with a shortage of maids dehors from that trouble among housewives have dropped markedly. Doing their own housework provides them enough physical exercise to prevent the heart trouble.

One of the first major clues to this new concept resulted from a study of the causes of deaths of bus drivers in England, compared to those for bus conductors. The drivers sat all day and had the emotional strain of fighting traffic. The conductors had practically no mental strain and exercised by walking up and down and climbing the stairs to the second deck. The coronary death rate among drivers was many times higher than for the conductors.

The old idea that college and professional athletes die early from heart attack is also exploded by Dr. Stocks. He says their death from this disease is generally about 20 per cent lower than experienced by the rest of the population.

Dr. Stocks warns that his research does not indicate that all persons who fear heart trouble should start doing a lot of violent exercising. He warns that moderate exercise is the key to the problem.

He also says that over a period of years a man's heart tends to adapt itself to his average physical pace. A drastic change of that pace after retirement, whether it's an increase or decrease of physical activity, is what should be avoided, he claims.

Hurricane Hunters Look Wildest Storms In 'Eye'

WASHINGTON — Because a few brave men regularly go looking for trouble, hurricanes that strike this country no longer are mass killers.

These men fly over empty ocean into the wildest storms on earth to send back advance warnings. Thus whole States and regions can batten down for the big blow, as New England did for "Carol" and "Edna" in 1954.

In storm season from June through November, United States Navy and Air Force hurricane hunters may make more than 100 hair-raising flights into a tempest's "eye," the National Geographic Society says.

It's been described as "riding a roller coaster on a rough track through a wind tunnel with cold water pouring down the neck." Few peacetime assignments match this job in hazard—or in usefulness. Death tolls show why it's more than worth the risk.

Okeechobee Disaster

In 1928, for example, before the Joint Hurricane Warning System existed, and unexpected storm pushed a 12-foot wall of water over Lake Okeechobee's edge in southern Florida. Deaths totaled 1,836. But in 1949, when another hurricane followed virtually the same path across Florida with equal winds, only two persons were killed. Chief difference was enough warning for evacuation.

Grandpappy of all modern hurricanes in terms of physical destruction, was the 1938 storm that hit New England like a colossal electric shaver, felling forests in swaths, chewing through cities, coating Vermont farmhouses with sea spray. Its toll of about 600 lives ranks far from the highest, however.

As late as 1935, the Red Cross reported that major hurricanes were killing an average of 500 people each. In 1930, some 2,000 were killed in Santo Domingo, Texas, was totally wrecked with 6,000 people killed in one storm. More than 100,000 died as the result of a hurricane in India in 1876.

Spinning Platter

A mature hurricane is a huge whirling platter of destruction and deluge, only a few miles high but hundreds of miles across—as big, say, as the State of Missouri.

Its winds can surpass 150 miles per hour near the center. It can lift two billion tons of water vapor from the sea in 24 hours and dump it all back as rain. Its energy expends itself at an estimated 500 trillion horsepower—the equivalent of several thousand atomic bombs exploding each second.

Scientists are still unsure just how and why a hurricane begins. Somewhere in the hot, still doldrums, between the northeast and southeast trade winds, such tropical whirlpools of air usually are born.

And into such maelstroms fly wind-battered planes to learn each storm's force and direction, take meteorological readings in the "eye" itself, radio back the priceless data to Miami's Hurricane Warning Center, and fight their way home again.

Edson In Washington

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NEA Staff Correspondent

(Peter Edson is on vacation.)

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The Pentagon is dumfounded at the amazingly successful psychological testing the Communists did on U. S. prisoners of war in Korea.

Just as soon as possible after a man was captured he was forced to write out a detailed history of his life and fill out a questionnaire which sought intimate details of his marriage, financial standing, education, hobbies and relations with his parents.

Not having been warned about this, and knowing they were not revealing military information most of the men complied with the request fully. The shock of capture also tended to make them very truthful and cooperative in going along with this Communist request.

Unfortunately the results of these tests told the Reds exactly who among the prisoners would be most susceptible to brainwashing. Generally they looked for men of better-than-average intelligence who might not have had too much education, had unhappy marriages or who were in some financial trouble at home. Scores of factors were apparently weighed in this selection.

They didn't bother with the men who were obviously well adjusted, had no bitterness toward their general lot in life or who expressed very firm conservative political beliefs.

EVERY POW WAS EXPOSED to some "education" in communism. But they saved their main efforts for those who appeared most likely to succumb to the higher science of brainwashing. And although it only ended up selling about 200 American soldiers on some kind of defection, out of 3600 POWs, it's still regarded as a dangerously successful effort.

This problem and a half dozen others in connection with the Korean POWs are now under study by numerous commissions and groups in the Pentagon. Psychologists, doctors, educators and lawyers have all been called in on the question.

When the implications of the POW situation began to dawn on the Pentagon after Operation Big-Switch, demands were made for tougher training, as a possible solution. It's now believed that training in the direction of being tougher is not the answer.

One thing being considered is an indoctrination of all men going into combat on how to gather evidence of defections in POW camps. If the men had known more about this Korea the services would have better cases against the defectors today.

IF THE MEN HAD BEEN better schooled in proper POW conduct it would have been a deterrent for many of the prisoners who got in trouble. All they were told was to give only name, rank and serial number.

There are military cases which have held that duress is no legal defense against treason. That principle is still held to. But how long must a man resist duress before committing some act short of treason? The service regulations are vague on that point.

Should a man cooperate with the enemy to keep other prisoners alive? That's another question military law does not spell out in satisfactory detail.

This point was the defense of Lt. Col. Harry Fleming who was found guilty of collaborating with the enemy and was cashiered out of the service as a sentence. It's going to be the defense of several among a dozen more men about to be tried for illegal conduct in POW camps.

IT'S RECOGNIZED THAT any man has a breaking point after subjection to torture. But how do you define that breaking point? And how do you define torture? Some prisoners broke under solitary confinement. Some didn't break under repeated beatings or when faced with mock firing squads.

The whole POW problem as it varies between the Army and Air Force is another area of study. Some Air Force experts believe that the shock of being captured is worse for a pilot or crewman who has just crashed, making them less accountable for their actions later.

The Army challenges this opinion claiming that the shock of capture comes on top of the shock of combat, making it greater for the men on the front than for downed pilots.

The net result of all of this study is bound to be a more detailed writing of the regulations governing all phases of POW conduct and a more complete indoctrination of men in combat on what to expect when they are captured by Communists.

That question about who might want to kill her brought the old woman's harsh laugh. She seemed to think that was the only answer necessary.

"Did you have a talk with Miss Wister before you made your announcement after dinner last night? And by the way, I thought you worked around to the suggestion of hiring me very cleverly. Or was that rehearsed?"

"The point," Mrs. Oswald snapped, "is whether or not you're accepting employment."

"I'm working for Mrs. Kit," the old woman said. She plucked at the covers, pulled them higher. "You saved my life last night. You owe me something for that. You're young. You can use money, and I have plenty. I want to know! Why did you save my life if you're going to let my last years be clouded with fear and suspicion?"

Jim said, "All right. I'll go on with my investigation. But just for your information, if Mrs. Kit is guilty of murder, I won't protect her. Or any of your family."

There was the familiar glint of macabre humor in Mrs. Oswald's eyes. "Conscience," she murmured. She went on, "Better include Philip. He's almost a family member, by—by—" apparently she couldn't think of a word she wanted to use.

"The first thing," Jim said, "is that I'll want to know the exact relationships that exist here."

Mrs. Oswald nodded. She let her eyes half close, appeared on the verge of sleep.

"Agnes Argyle is your daughter?"

"Yes I suppose she blurted that out last night? Well, let her tell you the rest of the story then. Poor Aggie. She really went to pieces, didn't she? But I'll give orders. They'll talk to you, tell you the truth or they'll answer to me."

Jim went to the kitchen. He found Philip Stoneman putting around with a coffeepot. Philip got a cup and filled it.

"There isn't any cream," Philip said. "And I've been a busy boy dumping out all the sugar. I've heard arsenic mixes well with sugar."

Jim sipped the black coffee. "Gregory Stoneman was a relation of yours?"

"Brother. When he died, I took over his job."

"Including Mrs. Hilton?" Philip nodded. "If you want to put it that way."

"So now you're almost a member of the family?"

Philip grinned. "Just on the Carlson fringe, you might say. When I'm really in, I won't have to use any self-discipline. Like the rest, I can just let myself go, show my truly sweet nature to the world at large."

"You'll develop the Carlson Conscience?" Jim demanded.

"Working on it now," Philip admitted. "Really working on it. Handy place to have your conscience, in a glass case in a summer place where you don't even have to see it 11 months out of the year."

"You think your brother was murdered?"

Philip hesitated a little on that one. "The Carlsons themselves are to blame for my suspecting one of them killed my brother. They all acted as if they had gotten away with something. Don't make any mistake about one thing, chum. The Carlson women may fight among themselves, but they keep it that way."

Jim nodded slowly. He remembered Mrs. Kit's statement she wanted evidence on Mrs. Hilton for use only "in the family circle." He knew now that his employer thought Mrs. Hilton guilty of the California murder.

Stoneman appeared to read his mind. "And don't count on Mrs. Kit, chum. She'd toss you to the wolves in a minute if you do any little thing the Carlsons, and old Mrs. Oswald in particular, don't like."

"Like proving Angelica was murdered?"

Philip's smile was a sneer. "Now you're beginning to act like a smart little man."

Dunn asked bluntly, "Have you made up your mind now as to whether your brother was murdered?"

"Yes. I've made up my mind. I'm not too stupid about some things."

"It was you who turned the sign around the night I first came to The Spires? It was you who put the barb wire in the strategic place?"

"The sign, yes. The wire, no. Just lucky chance it was there, I guess."

"You know you might have wrecked my car by misdirecting us?"

Philip shrugged. "I couldn't care less, chum."

"Who told you to change the sign and not let us in the locked gate?"

"Angelica asked me to," Philip went on. "No matter what you think, I liked Angelica. She always had a raw deal as far as I could see. She told me she wanted to get something out of The Spires and didn't know when she'd be able to get away."

"She knew someone was coming to The Spires?"

"We all knew that, chum."

"Mrs. Oswald is going to give orders for everyone to cooperate with me."

"I'm a great little guy for taking orders."

"Why?" Jim demanded, then went on to answer his own question. "Don't tell me. Let me guess. Money. An attractive woman. An easy life."

"You're catching on, chum."

Philip said, smashing his coffee cup in the sink.

Buick Sets High Goal For 1955

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Auto Editor
FLINT (AP) — Buick Motors, in third place this year in auto production and sales, intends to hold that place through 1955. Ivan L. Wiles, its general manager, told a news conference Wednesday.

To do it, he said, the big General Motors division is aiming at a new sales mark with its 1955 line of cars.

Wiles made his predictions at a press preview of the 1955 line of Buick. The new cars will be shown at dealer meetings throughout the country before their public presentation in mid-November.

He said consumer purchasing power is going up; a steady increase in population assures a growing demand for motor vehicles, and technological improvements make greater dollar values possible.

He emphasized his conviction product quality will be an all-important factor in 1955 sales and said the retailing organization will have a job cut out for it.

"It was easy to sell cars in the early postwar years when shortages created demand," he noted.

Wiles referred to the automotive industry as the "biggest single factor" in the national economy.

There are some persons, he said, "who still believe in the philosophy of scarcity" and that production should be arbitrarily curtailed to stimulate sales.

Asserting this was fallacious, Wiles said: "If the automotive industry were to wilfully eliminate 20 per cent of its annual production the resulting unemployment would have disastrous effects on the entire economy."

Foreigners Holding Investments Worth 24 Billion In U.S.

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Foreigners have been finding a lot of money since the war to invest in this country. Value of their holdings here approaches 24 billion dollars now, three times what it was before the war.

In addition, other nations and other central banks have been building up their reserves—and in the process Uncle Sam's stock of gold has dropped by three billion dollars in the last five years.

But the Federal Reserve Board reports that the private demand for gold the world over is now at a postwar low. The steam has gone out of the frenzy that saw 4½ billion dollars worth of the metal flow into private channels since 1944.

And the price of gold — once $50 an ounce and more on the black markets—is now down to the legal $35 rate almost everywhere. Rather than gold, foreign investors are looking to the United States these days for corporate stocks and U. S. Treasury securities.

Canadians, for example, have doubled their direct investments here since 1946—in the face of a great flow of American capital into Canadian industry and resources.

Latin Americans have made substantial increases in investment here in the same period. In addition, Latin America's total holdings of U. S. Treasury certificates and bank deposits now total two billion dollars.

This has been going on quietly while most of the talk has been about the need of American investments in other lands, especially the so-called under-developed ones.

Plenty of Cash

Private investment abroad by Americans is now just about the same as the total of foreign holdings here, the Northern Trust Co. of Chicago notes today in its October business comment. But that is only part of the picture. Add in the U. S. government's investment abroad in loans and so on and the total of American holdings rises almost to 40 billion dollars.

There is another striking difference in American holdings abroad and foreign investments here.

Foreigners have 14½ billion dollars here in liquid assets—that is, bank deposits and U. S. Treasury securities that they could quickly turn into cash. Less than two billion dollars of the total U. S. government and private investments abroad are in short-term liquid assets.

In all, foreigners have nearly four billion dollars directly invested here, hold about the same amount in U. S. corporate stocks and state and local government bonds, and have nearly seven billion invested in U. S. Treasury certificates. Bank deposits, estates, trusts, and real estate bring their total close to 24 billion dollars.

Average American In Good Finances

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — America's average male breadwinner is in fairly healthy financial shape. A study by the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center found that although consumer debts have risen, the situation is not serious.

The study showed the average consumer family has time payments totaling some 20 per cent of its income. But more than a third expect to complete their payments within nine months, and about all the families could pay off their debts with savings and other liquid assets.

The average family increased its liquid assets from 300 in early 1953 to $350 in early 1954, the highest level since 1948.

Mead Planning New Financing

DAYTON, OHIO—The Mead Corporation filed today with the Securities and Exchange Commission a registration statement covering a proposed offering of 150,000 shares cumulative second preferred stock (par value $50). It is anticipated that the offering of this stock, will be made on or about October 26, 1954, with Drexel & Co. and Harriman, Ripley & Co., Incorporated, as managers of the underwriting group. The proceeds from the proposed sale of stock will be added to Mead's general corporate funds.

The corporation and its consolidated subsidiaries have been engaged in a program of modernization and expansion of facilities which for the ten years ended 1953 involved capital expenditures of approximately $46,000,000 and will involve approximately $7,500,000 additional for the full year 1954. By far the larger part of the cost of this program has been financed out of depreciation charges and retained earnings.

The Mead Corporation is one of the large producers of paper and paperboard in the United States. Its principal executive offices are in Dayton, Ohio, and it has plants at Chillicothe, Ohio; Harriman, Kingsport and Nashville, Tennessee; Leominster, Massachusetts; Lynchburg, Virginia; and Sylva, North Carolina. In addition, it has subsidiaries with plants at Escanaba, Michigan; Mason and Rome, Georgia; and Knoxville, Tennessee, and an affiliated company, Brunswick Pulp and Paper Company, with a plant at Brunswick, Georgia.

Reuther Fights For Annual Wage

DETROIT (P)—Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO and the CIO United Auto Workers union, said Friday there would be no "bargain basement settlement" of the UAW's fight "to win a guaranteed annual wage in 1955 contract negotiations" with the automotive industry.

Reuther's prediction came in a statement sharply criticizing speeches made at a Michigan State College personnel institute Thursday by labor relations directors from the electrical and steel industries.

They had forecast tough going for the UAW's drive for the guaranteed annual wage.

Reuther said: "The corporations under contract with our union are getting a lot of free advice these days on ways to handle upcoming negotiations on the guaranteed annual wage. "The sideline coaches who are so free with their advice do not have to negotiate with our union. They come from other industries, but they are not exactly disinterested. They hope to keep the guaranteed wage out of their own industry and they are counting on this issue."

clinic which has been set up at the truck crane plant on the Danforth road, it was announced today by Howard Fontaine, personnel supervisor.

The expanded medical facilities and the personnel office at Escanaba will be housed in the new structure, which is a redesigned Harnischfeger prefabricated house. Originally intended as a four bedroom home, the interior of the building has been altered to accommodate the clinic and offices.

The interior walls of the structure are paneled with birch veneer and the floors are tile. Folding accordion type doors divide the clinic into three rooms, which may be used for consultation and treatment.

Under the present setup a company physician and an eye specialist will have regular daily office hours at the clinic. A full time nurse is on duty during the day and first aid men are available during the night shifts.

Stevenson Talks At Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (P)—The Democrats of Southern California rally 'round a home-town boy, Adlai Stevenson, in Hollywood Bowl tonight in a key campaign effort.

The 1952 Democratic nominee for president is scheduled to deliver the principal speech before an expected sell-out crowd of 20,000.

Party backers describe the rally as "one of the greatest in recent years" here.

About 300 party leaders have contributed $100 or more each for the privilege of having a buffet supper with the former Illinois governor before the program gets under way.

Friday night in Oklahoma City, he predicted a revival of Democratic party strength in the November elections.

The 1952 standard bearer ducked all questions here and in Oklahoma City regarding his own political future. But he wore a big smile as he was met at Los Angeles International Airport by several hundred supporters bearing placards, "Stevenson in '56."

Party Met Bear—All Surprised

KEENE, N. H. (P)—The Keene Sentinel recently received the following item from one of its small-town correspondents: "While berrying recently, Mrs. Joe Skinner, Mrs. Don Purcell and Mrs. Manning and her small daughter met a bear. All were surprised."

President Calls For Teamwork From Congress

gress to carry out the rest of his program.

"A cold war of partisan politics between the Congress and the executive branch won't give us these goals," he declared.

Eisenhower got a howling ovation when he was introduced at the rally here by Vice President Nixon, who voiced confidence the Republicans still will be in the control saddle when Congress meets in January.

Another Address Hinted
Eisenhower was flanked on the speakers platform by a group of republican congressional leaders and Colorado GOP candidates for Congress and state offices.

The leaders conferred with the President for an hour before his speech and at a news conference later promised "a stepped up tempo" in their fight for control of the House and Senate.

They avoided committing Eisenhower to more than the two additional campaign speeches he now definitely has planned. But Nixon said the president probably will make another address—a farm speech somewhere in the Midwest.

House speaker Martin and senate majority leader Knowland publicly continued to voice confidence the Republicans will win their battle, but some members of the party high command were saying privately they are worried. Eisenhower's speech Friday night was in much the same pattern as the one he made in Hollywood Bowl. As on that occasion marking the start of his harder hitting tactics, the President jabbed repeatedly at the democrats without once mentioning individuals or the opposition party by name.

No Red Herring
In fact, throughout his speech he deleted from his prepared text several mentions of a "Republican" Congress and talked of just "Congress" in reviewing the record. Aides could offer no explanation for that—which was something he did in Los Angeles, too.

"We're backing like" signs popped up all over the auditorium when he walked to the rostrum to start his address, which the White House said was carried by TV and radio to 1,250,000 party workers at 26,500 rallies around the country.

There was a burst of applause when Eisenhower said that voters in 1952 were determined to "eliminate penetration by the Communist conspiracy in our government," and another when he declared "they did not consider that menace a red herring."

That was a poke at the Truman administration's handling of the subversion problem.

The crowd cheered, too, when he said his administration tolerates "no vacillation nor inaction . . . in dealing with those who, by force or violence, would overthrow the government of the United States."

THREE PARAGRAPHS MISSED

DENVER, (P)—President Eisenhower was cut off the air both on television and radio, when his speech to a Republican rally here Friday night ran overtime.

The nationwide audience missed three paragraphs of the President's address and also missed a standing ovation given him at the conclusion of the talk by some 5,500 persons who jammed Denver's Auditorium. A spokesman for the Columbia Broadcasting System said the cut-off at the end of a paid political program was in line with long standing procedure.

Eisenhower might have completed the speech in time had he not been interrupted so frequently by applause. A reporter counted 42 times the President had to halt momentarily.

Bright Future Seen

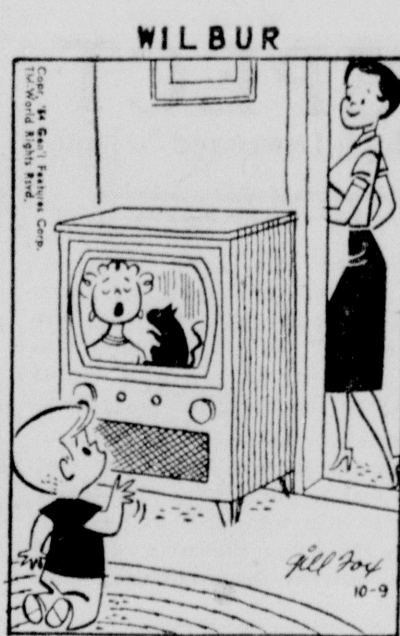

The section of the President's text which was missed by the radio and television audience said:

"Together we shall forge ahead in this great work we have so well begun, determined to keep America strong and secure—determined that this land of freedom, under Almighty God, will not rest until we see in the world a lasting peace with justice. Together we shall forge ahead to build in our America a steadily growing prosperity and happiness that will bring an ever brighter future for our people and for those who, after we are gone, must carry forward the banner of freedom."

"That, my fellow countrymen, is our kind of America."

"Working together with those millions who have made common cause with us in this effort, that is the kind of America we shall have."

Denver newspapers and televi-

"Wilbur, I haven't seen your pet hamster around . . . Where are you keeping him?"

sion and radio stations reported shortly after the President was cut off the air that they began receiving protests against the action.

Stabbed 34 Times

The police chief said "there is no question of sex being a factor in this case. It definitely is not."

Gallagher quoted young Chapin's statement as saying he began stabbing and beating the girl the moment she opened the door admitting him to the Goldberg apartment in a substantial section of Springfield.

Then, Gallagher went on, the youth heard little Stephen cry. He went to the child's bed and stabbed him and beat him with the wooden knife handle.

The bodies were found by the youngster's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Goldberg, when they returned from a night movie. Lynn Ann had been stabbed 34 times. Her neck was broken. Stephen was stabbed 24 times. His skull was fractured.

Gallagher said young Chapin recalled every detail of the slayings except how many times he stabbed the girl and the little boy.

After the slayings, Gallagher quoted him as saying he went home, washed his clothes and cleaned the knife, hid them, and went to bed.

Una Mae King, Robert L. Piche Married Today

St. Bruno's Church at Nadeau, pink and white gladiolus adorning its altar, was the setting for the wedding today of Miss Una Mae King and Robert L. Piche of Flint. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard King of Nadeau. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Piche, also of Nadeau, are the bridegroom's parents.

The double ring ceremony solemnized at 10 a. m. by Father Gino S. Ferraro, was followed by a wedding breakfast for the bridal party at the Nadeau Hall. The reception from 2 to 5 this afternoon for 400 guests will be held at the Nadeau parish hall and a wedding dance will be held this evening.

The bride's gown of white chintilly lace over nylon tulle and satin was designed with a fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, long sleeves which ended in points at the wrist and a ballerina length skirt with scalloped hemline. A Juliet cap trimmed with iridescent and pearls held her fingertip veil of imported illusion. She carried white carnations, baby chrysanthemums and yellow roses.

Autumn Shades

Ballerina length dresses of velvet made with fitted bodices, scoop necklines and full hoop skirts were worn by the young women who attended her. Miss Shirley Forgette of Flint, a cousin of the bridegroom, wore forest green and the bridesmaids Miss Jeannette Gruenstern of Stephenson and Mrs. Leonard Moreau of Carney were in gold. Their bouquets were bronze and gold shades of carnations and mums.

Little Barbara Ellen Weaver of Wolverine, a cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Therrings were carried by the bride's young brother, Dickie King.

Lawrence Piche of Nadeau was best man for his brother. Donald King of Big Rapids, a brother of the bride, and Leonard Moreau of Carney were groomsmen and the guests were seated by Kenneth King and Donald LeBeau.

Honeymoon in Canada

Mrs. King wore a navy blue dress with pink and navy accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Piche also wore navy with pink trim and pink and navy accessories. Their corsages were pink and white carnations. Assisting during the reception will be Mrs. Donald Renard of DePere, Wis., who will serve the wedding cake.

When the newlyweds leave for a honeymoon in Northern Michigan and Canada the bride will wear a dark brown suit with beige and brown accessories. They will reside at 205 W. Genesee St. in Flint. Both are graduates of Stephenson High School.

Wedding guests included relatives and friends from Escanaba, Green Bay, Milwaukee, Flint, Iron Mountain, Gladstone, Schaffer, Chicago, Iron River, Ironwood, Cleveland, Wolverine and DePere.

It's easy to remove the skin from a boiled smoked tongue if you use this technique. Remove the tongue from its cooking liquid when it is tender. Cut off the root end with its bone and gristle. Using a small sharp knife, slit the underside of the skin from the root end to the tip of the tongue; with the blade of the knife, loosen the skin around the thick root end. Now pull the skin away from the tongue.

TOO EMOTIONAL

in the following deal was amazed. It is understandable that West to hear the opponents bid a slam against his holding, but in view of the opposing bidding, he should have controlled his sense of outrage.

Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

5♥ 5♠ 6♥ Pass
Pass Dble. Pass Pass

Despite the profusion of West's honors, there was no possible defense against the slam at hearts. West collected his king of trumps, and nothing else.

It would be stretching things to censure West for his double of six hearts, but in consideration of all the circumstances and specifically the fact that South was a famous master, it would have been a great deal shrewder for West to bid six spades as an "insurance bid." Very presumably, North-South were not defending when they overcalled five spades, and, with all the high honor cards in West's hand, it was crystal-clear that they must be banking on extraordinary distributional values. As a matter of fact, North's pass to four spades was overly timid; he might well have bid six hearts then and there. South, having opened with a two-bid, could not go to the slam merely on the strength of North's first raise—the three notrump call over him had made the club loser all too probable.

Incidentally, South was bold enough in opening with two hearts on his comparatively meager top-card strength, but his freakish distribution went a long way toward justifying that selection.

Joan Calouette, Kenneth Palmgren Exchange Vows

A double ring wedding ceremony was performed today at St. Joseph's Church for the marriage of Miss Joan Lee Calouette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Calouette, 1309 Ludington St., and Kenneth Herman Palmgren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Palmgren, Bark River.

Rev. Colman Higdon, O.F.M., solemnized the 11 a. m. service before an altar adorned with fall flowers. Music during the nuptials was "On This Day O Beautiful Mother" and "Ave Maria" sung by Mrs. John Cass.

Autumn Shades

A gown of chintilly lace and satin with an overskirt of net was worn by the bride. Detailing the fitted bodice were a wing collar, tiny satin buttons and long tapering sleeves. The half skirt of matching lace extended into a chapel length train. Her fingertip veil was caught to a Juliet cap. She carried a cascading bouquet of red roses and white pompons.

Identical gowns of deep red, gold and green were worn by the matron of honor, Mrs. Wayne Teal, sister of the bride, and the two bridesmaids, Mrs. Joanne Petersen, Powers, and Mrs. Lenore Palmgren, Bark River. The gowns were styled with matching jackets with wing collars. They wore poke bonnets and carried muffs of fall flowers.

Flower girls were two nieces of the bride, Bonnie Kay Teal and Judy Calouette. They were attired in miniature replicas of the bride's gown. They carried miniature bouquets of flowers in autumn shades.

Late Afternoon Reception

Brother-in-law of the bride, Wayne Teal, acted as best man, while the groomsmen were Don Calouette, the bride's brother, and Marvin Palmgren, brother of the bridegroom. Ushering the guests to their seats were Don Palmgren, the bridegroom's brother, and Bob Calouette, the bride's brother.

Mrs. Calouette attended her daughter's wedding attired in a dress of blue-grey with pink accessories. Her corsage was pink roses and carnations. The mother of the bridegroom wore a navy dress with winter white accessories. Her corsage was fashioned of white feathered mums.

A wedding reception for 300 guests will be held at the U.C.T. club from 4 to 8 p. m. Autumn flowers and white wedding bells will decorate the club house. Assisting at the reception will be Mrs. Jean Larson and Mrs. Rose Grenfelt, both sisters of the bridegroom, who will pour, and Mrs. Jacqueline Palmgren, who will serve the cake.

Gospel Work Is Busy Sideline For Rock Grade School Teacher

By Mrs. Albert Weldum
ROCK—Aside from having a full time job as elementary principal and instructor of the fifth and sixth grades at the Rock High School, John Small finds time to devote his spare time to a unique branch of teaching several nights a week and all day Sunday. His textbook is the Bible. His tools include such visual aids as an opaque projector, chalk, drawings and flannelgraph scenes.

The Upper Peninsula Bible Camp at Forsyth (Little Lake) is beautiful and is open to all who wish to attend. Young people may earn a free week at camp among other awards, by attending the Family Bible Hour on Sundays.

With the help of Mrs. Small and other interested persons, Mr. Small conducts a service called the Family Bible Hour in Forsyth, Turin (MacFarland) and Rock Town Hall each Sunday, a Young People's meeting on Wednesday evenings and a Bible Study Group on Thursday evenings at the Forsyth Bible Chapel.

Attended Bible Schools

Since he was converted at a boy's camp himself, his work in Christian camps became his prime interest. At the age of 16 he supervised a Negro mission in northern New Jersey, his former home state. This served to promote his interest in gospel work among children.

After service in the army, his interest had deepened in gospel work to the extent that he attended the Emmaus Bible School in Toronto, Canada for three years to prepare himself more fully for such work among young people. After completing school, he heard of a need for a camp counselor at the U. P. Bible Camp and volunteered for the position.

Mrs. Small, whom he met at the school in Toronto, is also very much interested in the same type of work. After they assisted at the U. P. Bible Camp in 1947, they saw a need for such work in the nearby areas that would continue through the winter months.

With this idea in mind, they planned to settle in the Upper Peninsula as rural gospel workers. While attending Northern Michigan College of Education at Marquette in preparation to enter teaching in public schools as a profession, Mr. Small began services in Turin and Rock. When camp manager, Cameron MacArthur, moved to Lower Michigan, the Forsyth meetings and the camp work became part of Mr. Small's part time responsibility, for by this time he was teaching at the Rock School.

Receives No Salary

He receives no salary for his work, no offerings are taken at any of the meetings. Groups of Christians in Michigan who are interested in this type of work, contribute to the financial backing. Others interested in the gospel effort purchased the carry-all eight passenger truck, which is comparable to a station wagon. So that the rural work may be carried on.

This truck is used to transport young people to and from Young People's meetings and also to transport people to the various other gatherings. This gospel work is not affiliated with any denomination, all persons are welcome. Anyone who is interested in the gospel, but has no means of getting to the meetings, may contact Mr. Small, phone 2761, for transportation.

Various contests and rewards attract young people to Sunday services. A free week at the U. P. Bible Camp on Farmer's Lake next summer is the most coveted prize. Last summer a total of 22 boys and girls earned a free week at the camp by attending meetings regularly, by bringing their Bible to the services and by learning a scripture verse from October through May.

Summer Camp Popular

Students nine years and older are eligible to attend the Bible camp for one week or more each summer. Camp is in session during July and August for various ages. All work is done by unpaid volunteers from Michigan and Wisconsin.

The Family Bible Hour services are conducted at the Forsyth Gospel Chapel on Sunday afternoons, at the Highway Gospel Chapel just north of the Delta-Marquette County line on M-35 on Sunday afternoons and at the Rock Town Hall on Sunday evenings at 7:30. The Highway Chapel was built by Mr. Small and Mr. MacArthur in 1949 and serves the folks between Little Lake and Rock.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Small are musicians which helps in their work. Mr. Small uses art to make his talks interesting. Kenneth Hill of Rock and Miss Thora Hansen of Lathrop have been assisting the Smalls in their gospel work. Often movies are shown and sometime missionaries tell of their experiences and travels during these services. The public is invited to these gatherings.

Parties and Games

On Wednesday nights, Mr. Small furnishes rides to interested young people, 12 years and older, for meetings at the Forsyth Chapel. Often parties and games are enjoyed, sleigh rides, or some other form of entertaining recreation is provided, depending on the season. Young People's meetings will begin next week, Oct. 13th.

On Thursday evenings, the Bible Study Group meets at the Forsyth Chapel for study of the Bible. Since Mr. Small is attending an extension course of Northern Michigan College of Education at Escanaba on Tuesday nights, it is doubtful whether he will be able to organize a craft's club as was conducted last year at the Rock Town Hall.

The Smalls are very modest about their work. They feel that though their work does not pay off in a form of a salary, the compensation and satisfaction of such efforts is very rewarding and lasting in itself.

Holland Has 200 Miles Of Dikes

Holland has 200 miles of ramparts which never yield to the sea, says the National Geographic society. Huge sand dunes, they serve not only as dikes but as reservoirs to catch rain. Fresh water collects in pools beneath the dunes and is piped to towns. Near-by beaches are popular vacation spots.

Snake Endurance Is Rated Poor

Snakes can travel fast but only in spurts and not for long, says the National Geographic Society. The fastest snake in the United States the western whip snake, crawls at scarcely more than three miles an hour and when hunting prowls at a quarter of a mile per hour.

Iron Grillwork A Century Old

The elaborate iron grillwork seen on many homes in Savannah, Ga., is about a century old, says the National Geographic Society. The decorations were introduced by French royalists who fled to this southern city when revolution flared on the island of Hispaniola in the West Indies.

AUTHOR "AT HOME"—For six years "Dick" Morenus lived in a log cabin in the Ontario bush country before coming to Escanaba to write a book—a project achieved after 30 years of preparation in the writing profession. He and Mrs. Morenus will visit friends in Escanaba later this month.

Richard "Dick" Morenus, who came to Escanaba to write a book after spending six years in the Canadian bush country, will return here the week of Oct. 18 to visit friends—this time as an established author with two books to his literary credit.

Morenus and his wife, Nora, now reside at Fennville, Mich. When they come to Escanaba later this month they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Fernstrom, 1420 2nd Ave. S.

For a man who had always wanted to write a book, Morenus achieved his goal the hard way and after 30 years in the writing profession.

The 'Different' Life

He spent his boyhood in La-Porte, Ind., and attended Dartmouth College. His first job was writing advertising copy in Chicago and from there he turned to radio writing and directing, which took him to New York City.

He contributed to free-lance dramatic shows and ground out material for most of the popular daytime radio series—including those with deadlines that left him literally hanging over his typewriter too many hours per week to spare a moment to contemplating writing a book. He decided to break with the hectic routine and "try a different sort of life."

The break was complete and dramatic. He moved to a cabin on an island in a remote Canadian lake and for six years fought mosquitoes in summertime and blizzards in winter. His experiences were put together in a book he titled "Crazy-White-Man"—a book written after he

Short Hops Keep North Central's 118 Pilots Busier Than Trunkline Fliers

North Central Airlines pilots—like the crews of all commercial airlines—are allowed to work a maximum of only 85 hours a month.

Sounds like a soft life, but North Central crews put in a busier 85 than perhaps the crews of any other airline in the country.

They make more take-offs and landings in a single day than most trunkline pilots make in a week. They execute more instrument approaches in three days than most trunkline pilots make in the course of a month.

From 6 a. m. till midnight, a North Central DC-3 Northliner takes off or lands on an average of every two and a half minutes somewhere on the company's 2,659-mile five-state system.

118 NC Pilots

In number of flights and landings, North Central's local service operation has attained trunk airline proportions. In fact, North Central exceeds several trunklines in these categories. Only difference is the local service operation calls for 21-passenger DC-3 equipment and considerably shorter hops.

North Central pilots, now a record 118, are scheduled to operate a total of 2,028 flights next month in bringing daily service to 45 cities in North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois. That's 68 flights every weekday, 55 on Saturdays and 65 Sundays. (A flight is a trip between two terminal points via intermediate cities.)

In October the pilots will execute a grand total of 6,463 take-offs and 6,463 landings. That's 213 every weekday, 194 on Saturdays and 204 Sundays.

Judging by past performance, 83 per cent of those landings will be made on time. That's 5,430 on-time arrivals. By industry standards, that is an impressive record for on-time operation.

Flight performance will be 98 per cent; that is, 98 per cent of the 496,223 route miles scheduled for the month will be flown.

Dozen Landings Daily

A North Central crew (captain and co-pilot) will take off and land their 25,000-lb. DC-3 a dozen times in an average day's work schedule, reports Capt. Gaile F. Wallis, chief pilot.

In overcast weather, a crew may have to make instrument approaches at half the cities on its route," Wallis says. "In fact," he adds, "I've flown between Duluth-Superior and Chicago on a day when we had to make instrument approaches at every city on the flight."

This kind of experience has won North Central pilots a reputation for smooth landings and recognition as highly experienced in instrument flying conditions.

All 18 of North Central's DC-3

Northliners are equipped with the latest dual radio communication and navigation facilities, ground control approach (GCA) and instrument landing (ILS) equipment. At 19 cities on the system, pilots "fly the beam" on North Central's own radio navigation aids—the largest privately owned and operated radio navigation system in the nation.

Better and additional navigation equipment at the various airports and airfield improvements have contributed markedly to North Central's ever-increasing dependability. Next to safety, an on-time operation is uppermost in a pilot's mind, for he knows that nothing will do a better job of promoting business and maintaining passenger goodwill than on-time service.

Pilots Like Local Service

H. N. Carr, airline president, says that an all-out effort by pilots and maintenance and station personnel to increase on-time performance has figured strongly in the airline's progress in improving operations, increasing business and putting the company on a sounder financial basis.

A pilot likes to fly local service. While the hours behind the controls of his DC-3 Northliner keep him busier than his trunkline counterpart, a North Central pilot spends a lot more time at home, for he's seldom away longer than 12 hours at a time—a major attraction of a local line. Further, a rapidly expanding airline offers greater opportunity for check-out from co-pilot to captain.

When North Central inaugurated service six and a half years ago, the company's pilot complement totaled 18. They're still flying the Route of the Northliners.

Besides their intensive on-the-job experience in maneuvering their aircraft in scheduled service, the pilots undergo continual training in the company's pilot proficiency program conducted from Wold-Chamberlain Field, St. Paul-Minneapolis, the line's main base of operations.

To date, North Central Airlines pilots have flown some 129,086,000 revenue passenger miles. They've maintained a perfect safety record.

Former Garden Teacher Recalls School Experiences Of 1912

The "Three R's" were stressed but there was no hot lunch, roads were poor and the school bus had not yet been heard of back in 1912 at the Garden public school when Mrs. Joseph Temmer—then Miss Hattie Ansell—taught the Seventh and Eighth Grades.

Recalling this simpler if no less challenging time as a teacher, Mrs. Temmer said that "discipline was no problem." The bond of friendship and cooperation between student and teacher was close.

A souvenir book presented to the students graduating from the Eighth Grade describes this parting of student and teacher in sentimental verse:

Oh sweet has our communion been,

The days have passed in joy

And nothing ill has entered in

To mar them with alloy.

Today's younger generation may consider such sentiments "corny" but back in 1912 they were accepted as a true expression of understanding and respect. The booklet also admonished that "Education is Wealth" and "Wealth may seek us, but Wisdom must be sought."

Taught Two Grades

Retired from the teaching profession for many years, Mrs. Temmer and her husband have for the past decade owned and operated Dunrovn' Cabins, located about four miles south of Escanaba on the bay shore.

Mrs. Temmer was born at Fayette, the daughter Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ansell. The Ansell name is well known on the Garden Peninsula, for Mrs. Temmer's grandfather settled on the shore north of Garden in the 1820's—the first white settler in that area of Delta County. Ansell's Point was named for him.

Garden and Van's Harbor were thriving adjacent communities back in the period 1912-14 when Mrs. Temmer taught at the "new" Garden school. She taught 35 to 40 pupils in the Seventh and Eighth Grades. Grades Nine and Ten were started in 1913.

"The curriculum stressed arithmetic, geography, spelling, civil government, history and penmanship," Mrs. Temmer said. "No, there was no hot lunch and there were no buses. The children, all from the village, went home to lunch at noon."

Travel By Steamer

Travel was difficult except by water, and then slow by today's standards. The roads went only to Cooks and Manistique.

"We went to Escanaba on the steamer Baltimore, which carried passengers and freight and made daily trips," Mrs. Temmer said. "The Baltimore first stopped at Fayette, then at Nahma and Stonington before reaching Escanaba. It was an all-day trip and we would return home late at night."

Frank G. Tebo, who died recently in Green Bay, was superintendent of the Garden High School back in 1912. The school officers were John Bonifas, James Hennessy, Leonard Spaulding, Thomas Tracey and William Kouthen.

Pupils listed in the 1912 souvenir booklet were: Louisa Baker, Harold Bonifas, Lottie Boudreau, Harry Bailey, Vernon Hazen, Ernest Joque, Henry Lueneburg, Thomas Mellon, Leora Broutt, Ella Carbon, Albert Mainville, Will Mikkelsen, David Cooper, Truman Disco, Leona Foye, Lee Foote, Frank Gray, Mildred Noe, Loretta and Ruth Truckey, and Lena Gardner.

Many 'Good Times'

Garden was a neat and pretty little town in 1912, Mrs. Temmer recalls. There were some lingering pioneering aspects, however, represented by the groups of Indians who came from Indian Point near Nahma to sell their baskets.

While Garden had no radio, TV or movies in those days the young people had "many good times," said Mrs. Temmer.

"We made our own fun," she smiled. "There were the weekly dances at the Town Hall and the meetings of the sewing club."

Lumbering, farming and fishing supplied jobs for the people. The saw mill at Van's Harbor was operated full time then. Later it was to close and Van's Harbor was to become a "ghost town" until its revival as a tourist attraction and fishing resort.

Changing times was represented by Garden's first automobile, a Maxwell touring car, brought to the village by the late Charles Evald, Garden's first banker.

Now good roads provide an open highway the year around, ending the long months of winter isolation of an earlier day, when mail came to Garden over the ice from Nahma at infrequent intervals. A bus transports students to high school at Cooks. But the old brick school still serves the community as part of the new Catherine Bonifas grade school.

THE GRADUATING CLASS at Garden school 42 years ago included girls in middie blouses and boys in knee pants. Mrs. John Temmer of Ford River Road, the former Miss Hattie Ansell, taught the Seventh and Eighth Grades from 1912 to 1914. Teacher presented each of the students with a souvenir booklet. A portion of one of the pages of the booklet is pictured.

Retail Lumbermen Try Selling New Homes By Panel

LUMBER DEALERS are waking up to the fact that people are het-up over home building costs and the lumbermen aim to do something about it. They agree that it is old-fashioned, to say the least, to put together some 30,000 little pieces in order to build a house. They think a comparatively few big parts could be used—and presto, there's your house.

Some local lumber yards already have this system ironed out with local carpenters steadily employed on assembly lines, instead of wandering from job to job. They are trucking daily to job sites whole wall sections complete with windows and doors already installed, fully fabricated roof trusses, rows of closets called "storage walls," and so on.

This system is called component building and the industry is so enthusiastic about it that a big show is going to be based on it for the National Retail Lumber Dealers convention in New York from Oct. 2 to 10. This show, to be called the Modern Living Exposition, will be staged in the huge Kingsbridge Armory, largest single floor exhibit hall that could be found. Three demonstration houses will be erected in the middle of that vast floor.

THESE HOUSES will feature a method by which virtually every local lumber yard will be able to compete with the pre-fabricated house idea and save the buyer transportation costs from a distant factory. The idea is that local lumber yards will build standard wall sections in panels consisting of framework and plywood sheathing. The panels fit together on the job to conform in mind. You are not limited, as in buying an automobile, to a two-door or four-door model. You can have a one-door, or three-door or 40-window set-up.

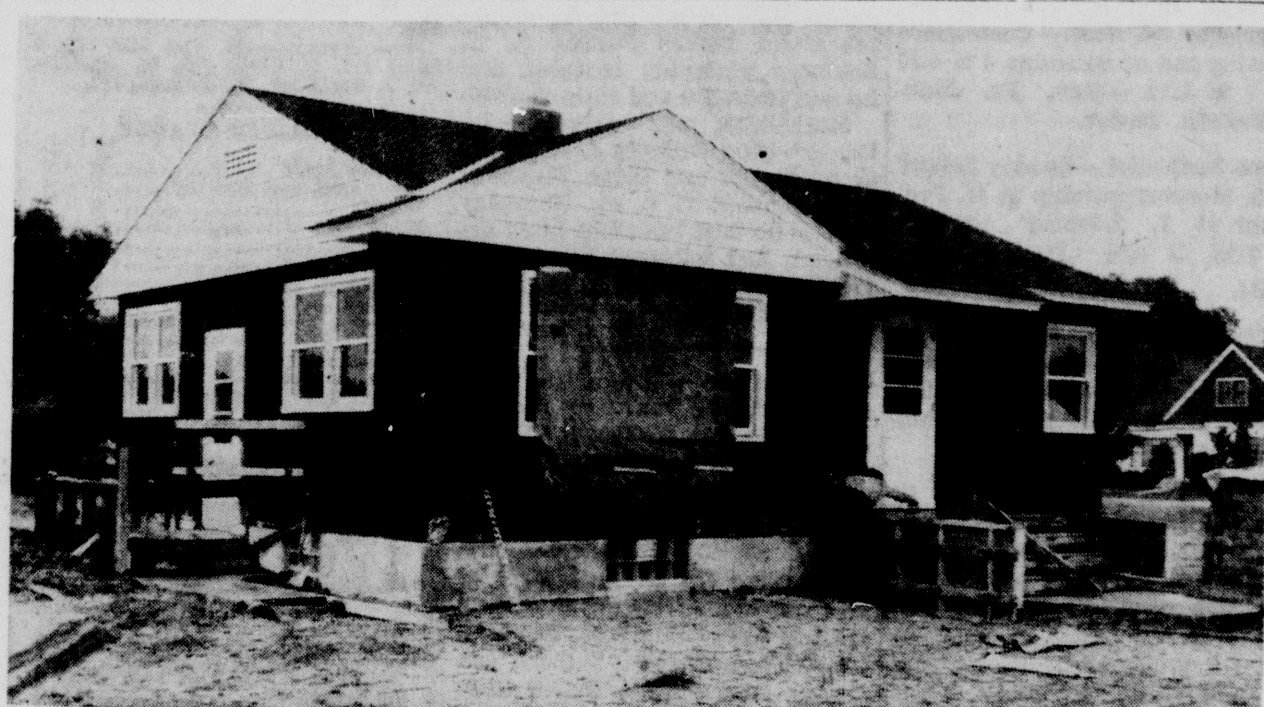

The parts are nailed together on your foundation before you can spend a day saying Jack Robinson—in fact, a demonstration house was erected and roofed over in less than a day with a total of only 22 man-hours on the job.

THE IDEA has been a-borning for some time. It was polished off by the University of Illinois Small Homes Council under a grant from the Lumber Dealers Research Council. For that sponsorship, the panel method has been named the Lu-Re-Co system. It is part of the general component construction, which the American Builder, trade publication of the home builders, has long advocated.

Even before World War II, a few smart developers were building staircases, finished and fitted windows and doors, kitchen cabinets and closets in their warehouses. They knew that certain units would fit into any style of house. But it took this long for the idea to percolate down to a practical system for local lumber yards.

AN INDUSTRY spokesman told us that building by components should not be confused with house prefabrication. "It is pre-construction in shops of parts of the house," he said, "not the entire dwelling. As in conventional construction, actual building of the house is an on-site job." And the American Builder calls the component technique "a middle course between conventional and prefabrication methods."

However, Carl Swartz, Decatur, Ill., builder, told that trade publication that he saved 200 man-hours in construction of a $16,000 home by using pre-made trusses and panels instead of the ordinary do-it-all-on-the-site method. And Martin L. Bartling Jr., of Knoxville, Tenn., whom the editors call one of the leaders in component construction, said "We can place a storage wall unit in a matter of minutes, as compared to a couple of days' time for building closets."

A conference of builders, manufacturers, sponsored by the American Builder in conjunction with the National Assn. of Home Builders, recently concluded that component construction makes sense, because:

1. It lends itself to standardization without sacrificing flexibility and individuality. "Look-alike" houses will not result.

2. It provides cost saving that can be passed on to the consumer.

Qualified Worker Can Help Save On Home Decorating

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Attention, Home handyman: Why not make a decorator your aide de camp?

A good decorator can save you money, time and effort says Isabel Barringer, member of the American Institute of Decorators. She explains:

"Too often Mr. and Mrs. Do-It-Yourself expend their energies on wasteful processes with disappointing results. In the end it's more expensive than boughten labor. A decorator can be an effective partner in suggesting to home carpenters how they can harness their labor to a constructive conclusion." Decorators help ascertain living habits of the family, aiding them to express their personalities in the home as they cut costs in furthering the project, says Miss Barringer.

Amateurs can make use of many new materials, cutting expenses with their own labor. Such innovations as pre-mixed paints in decorator colors applied with handy roller applicators and smack-em-on wallpapers are a revelation when selected with an eye to smart decorator color schemes. Ordinary dime-store scrapbaskets may be covered in charming papers, wood veneers or simulated leather fabrics. Unpainted furniture can be covered with plastic veneers or lacquered in beautiful colors. Special hardware can give home-made furniture a custom-built look.

Miss Barringer has seen unusual and artistic lamps made from six to eight-inch paper cylinders filled with sand and covered with metallic paper or felt. Glass vases, bot-ties and jars may be lined with paper designs to produce unusual decoupage effects as lamp bases.

A good decorator can help select fabrics for draperies, slipcovers and bedspreads. Any amateur with the help of a local sewing center can be a home seamstress. Miss Barringer is opposed, however, to the decorator, who tries to inject her own personality into an-

Good Potato Crop Is Reported In County

Rains in the past month have put size on Schoolcraft County potatoes and it appears there will be a good spud crop, Clayton D. Reid, county agricultural agent reports.

At Cooks, where eight fields were checked, only two showed yields of less than 500 bushels per acre, the agent said, and 4-H members in the area had yields ranging from 412 to 729 bushels per acre.

Alger county also appears to have a good crop, Reid stated. Three fields were checked there and all had yields of over 500 bushels.

Acreage is down this year, the county agent reports. Some potato farmers did not plant, he said, and others cut acreage.

There is no government price support on potatoes this year, Reid noted. Price offers have not been "too good," he added, but not many farmers plan to sell unless they can obtain $2 per bushel. Many potatoes will be warehoused, Reid stated, and a few farmers will store the spuds in pits until later this fall.

About six Schoolcraft potato growers and three from Alger county plan to exhibit at the U. P. Potato Show in Escanaba Nov. 2-3-4, the agent said. Also exhibiting will be 4-H members from the two counties.

Cooks Lions Will Drill Town Well

Equipment for drilling a well at the new Inwood township hall has been moved in by a contractor and work is expected to start Monday, J. Arthur Sherry, program director for the Cooks Lions club, has reported.

The well is the first project to be undertaken by the 28-member club, since it received its charter June 26. Members will donate labor for the well-drilling, Sherry added.

The new well, which is to be not more than 65 feet deep, will furnish water for the yet uncompleted township hall. Rough plumbing already is installed in the building.

Alec Weigandt is president of the Cooks club, Herbert Gray is secretary, and Russell Minor Jr. is treasurer. During the summer the club sponsored a number of projects to raise funds for the well.

Fire Danger Goes Up In Forestland

Fire danger in wooded areas is increasing as wind, frost and seasonal changes denude forests of their protective green cover, Dan Ricker, forest ranger here notes, and added precaution is again necessary.

The forest service reports a small fire was squelched Thursday afternoon in the Straits Lake area before it made much headway. It is believed to have been caused by a bird hunter smoking.

The fire was discovered by Albert Latasiewicz, state conservation officer at 12:45 p. m. He and a crew obtained from the James Dubois resort put the fire out before forest service crews arrived, Ricker reports. Only a tenth of an acre was burned.

The club also agreed to have four members attend a 3-day institute conducted by Mrs. Belle Farley Murray, consultant in parent education for the University of Michigan Extension service; and to send a delegate to the Parent Education institute Nov. 3-4. The program for the coming year was planned afterwards.

Members saw the skit, "Information Please," presented by Mrs. Mercier, Mrs. Howard Magoon, Mrs. Leo Chartier, Mrs. Robert Hoar, Mrs. Joseph Van Dyck, Mrs. Mero, Mrs. William Morden, Mrs. Henry DeSautel, Mrs. Ray Burns, Mrs. Jack Soukup and Lowell Ellsworth.

Room awards were given to Miss Helen Havlicek's sixth grade at Lincoln and Mrs. Mercier's room at Riverside.

Lunch was served by Mrs. J. Van Dyck, chairman, Mrs. Joseph David, Mrs. John Blomquist, Mrs. L. E. Wilson and Mrs. Vilas Young.

Public Speaking Important

Manistique High School again has a group of debaters preparing for competition with other Upper Michigan students. Even a brief reflection on the record of debate in MHS brings to mind the high honors debaters have won both while in school here and after going on to college.

A democracy's success depends to a great extent on the ability of leaders to use persuasive powers rather than force, and upon the understanding and spirit of cooperation which comes after full discussion.

The role of speech is an important one for us, and we are pleased that schools across the land continually develop both a student's ability to think, and to effectively tell others what his thoughts are.

Sportsmen Endorse Plan To Cut Trout Plantings

A proposal to reduce artificial propagation and planting of trout in the state, to make more funds available for stream and watershed improvement, was endorsed by the Schoolcraft county Sportsman's club at a meeting Thursday night.

The trout reduction program was recommended by the Michigan United Conservation clubs. The Schoolcraft club also approved an MUCC proposal to prohibit planting of trout within a half mile of waters closed to the public.

Another recommendation, which would set aside portions of streams for "flies only" fishing, was opposed by the Schoolcraft club on grounds it discriminated against bait fishermen.

Sending of boys to junior conservation camps was discussed by sportsmen and their decision to send youngsters was reaffirmed. They also favor finding a conservation camp site in Upper Michigan, so UP youngsters will not need to travel to the lower peninsula for the annual camp meetings.

Also discussed Thursday night was the issue of whether or not the Schoolcraft club should continue affiliation with the Michigan United Conservation clubs. The final decision was postponed until the Oct. 21 meeting.

Club members appear to be of the opinion that the Northern Michigan Sportsmen's clubs, with which the group formerly was affiliated, better serves the Schoolcraft club's purpose, Merwin White, president reports. About a dozen out of over 600 sportsmen's clubs in Upper Michigan are presently affiliated with the MUCC, White added.

Iron River Blasts Stars:bo 44-0 To Retain Top Spot

By RAY CRANDALL
STAMBAUGH — A powerful band of Iron River Redskins wrote football history here last night as they scalped Stambaugh 44-0 to cement their claim to the No. 1 spot in the Upper Peninsula.

ONLY UNBEATEN TEAM

Stambaugh's stunning 44-0 defeat at the hands of Iron River last night left the Redskins as the only major unbeaten football team in the Upper Peninsula. Hurley, playing without the services of star fullback Dick Zell, trimmed the previously unbeaten Wakefield Cardinals 38-14 last night.

Never before had an Iron River team evidenced such superiority over a Stambaugh squad. The margin of victory was by far the greatest that any Iron River team had posted in the previous 48 games of the Upper Peninsula's most bitter football rivalry. The win was Iron River's 15th in the long series.

Operating behind a surging forward wall, Iron River's touchdown twins Eddie Vergara and Jerry Gallagher scored three TD's apiece. With guard and linebacker John Turcotte leading the way, the Iron River defense blasted any hopes Stambaugh had. Time and again the swift Hilltopper halfbacks were joined for losses as the Redskin line swept through everything before it.

A crowd of over 5,000 fans spilled over Nelson Field stadium to watch Coach Harold Bernhardt's Redskins notch their 18th straight victory (fifth this season) at the expense of previously undefeated Stambaugh.

Hurricane Eddie, Iron River's Hawaiian speed merchant, triggered the Redskin attack in the first period. He capped a long drive following the opening kickoff by spinning through from the four-yard line. The period ended 6-0.

Vergara and Gallagher alternated on the Iron River touchdowns through the second and third periods. Gallagher, whose speed matches that of Vergara, whipped over from the 10. Vergara scored from the 15 and Gallagher picked up a fumble to race 80 yards, making the half-time score 26-0.

Vergara and Gallagher scored one more touchdown apiece in the third period before reserve halfback Duane Mosca got into the act to click for Iron River's final TD in the final period.

The Redskins completely overwhelmed Stambaugh in every phase of the game. With Vergara and Gallagher getting occasional help from quarterback Gene Lilley and fullback Don Lundin, Iron River piled up 17 first downs to 7 for Stambaugh. Redskins backs ran for an amazing 422 yards and passed for 61, for an offensive total of nearly 500 yards. Stambaugh was held to 135 yards on the ground and 5 in the air.

Iron River took advantage of early breaks to help whip Stambaugh into submission. After scoring their first TD in the initial period the Redskins kicked off to Stambaugh but the ball squirted sideways down the field and was recovered by Iron River.

And the first time Stambaugh got its hands on the ball the Hilltoppers put together two first downs but fumbled at midfield. The next time the Hilltoppers got the ball they fumbled again, with big Turcotte recovering on the Stambaugh 23.

Gallagher's long scoring jaunt came when Stambaugh quarterback Bob Soderbloom attempted pitch-out to halfback Chuck Greenlund went astray. Gallagher picked it out of the air and was off to the races.

Another strong link in Iron River's big line was guard Bob Watts who was prominent in the tackling department and recovered one of Stambaugh's fumbles.

Greenlund, who constituted Stambaugh's only running threat, was injured in the third period and left the game. Hilltopper coach Willard Anderson used reserves almost exclusively through the last quarter.

Phillie Manager Is Reported On Way Out

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Terry Moore is reported on his way out as manager of the Philadelphia Phillies and Frank (Lefty) O'Doul or Skeeter Newsome may be in line for the job.

The report is that Moore, who said last month that he would be back, is being given a polite brushoff. The official Phillies' family apparently wasn't pleased with the fireworks Moore set off in Milwaukee when he accused his players of open rebellion.

But a Phils spokesman said Friday night that reports of O'Doul, a former National League batting champion and veteran Pacific Coast manager, being in line for the post were "scuttlebutt."

"Someone is merely trying to guess something that isn't settled," the spokesman said.

Four Big Ten Teams Get Initial Tests

CHICAGO (AP)—Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota and Northwestern get their initial tests in Big Ten football today while Purdue and Wisconsin, a couple of favorites, continue intercollegiate action against foes.

Illinois' defending co-champions host Ohio State in what Illini fans hope will be a repeat of last year's 41-20 upset.

The Buckeyes, paced by a powerful legion of backs, bounced Indiana a couple of weeks ago and then added California to its victim list.

Illinois sputtered and lost to Penn State and then was beaten by Stanford.

Rock Trims Gladstone Bee Team By 25 To 7

ROCK—The Rock Little Giant's fashioned their second win of the season yesterday by trimming the Gladstone Bee team 25-7.

Sparked by Jack Lund, Ralph Anderson and Duane Vandebusch, Rock snapped a scoreless tie in the second period and then registered in each quarter.

Vandebusch passed to Anderson for the first touchdown, the play covering 20 yards. Later in the second period Rock spread the margin to 12-0 when Anderson intercepted a pass and raced 35 yards to score.

In the third period Rock marched down field to the Gladstone one-yard line from where Anderson ploughed over to make it 18-0. Vandebusch carried for the extra point, 19-0.

Dick Toyra scored the final Rock TD with a 50-yard runback of an intercepted pass.

Midway in the fourth period Gladstone's Paul Hammond slammed over from the four-yard line to make the final score 25-7.

In the halftime Central League cross country meet Rapid River swept to an impressive victory, placing runners first, second, third, fourth, sixth and seventh—for a near-perfect 16 points. Nahma was second with 52 and Eben third with 78.

Ken Horwood was first in 55:59. Steve Johnson Bill Lundin and Jim Greenlund of Rapid followed him in. Floyd Ylinen of Eben was fifth, Larry Paul of Rapid sixth, Jay Huff of Rapid seventh, Duane Popour of Nahma eighth, Bernard Newhouse of Nahma ninth and Wade Groleau of Nahma tenth.

Johnson Upset By Billy Smith

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Boardwalk Billy Smith bombed his way into the forefront of the light heavyweight ranks here Friday night with one solid punch.

The 33-year-old transplanted Californian—now makes his home in Atlantic City, N. J.—knocked out Harold Johnson in 1:22 of the second round. It took 175-pound champion Archie Moore 14 rounds to accomplish the same feat last August.

Smith, 173½, caught the No. 1 light heavyweight title contender with a right hand on the side of his face that pitched 26-year-old Harold to the deck as if he'd been pole-axed. The 174-pound Philadelphia lurched forward, then staggered backward and finally sat down on his haunches.

Johnson tried to get up but he couldn't move. He said in his dressing room after the nationally televised bout, "the punch really hurt. I tried to get up but I was stunned. I'm still dazed."

Smith was a 2-1 underdog and considered a stepping stone for Johnson in the latter's campaign to earn another crack at Moore. The veteran campaigner spotted Johnson speed, skill and youth.

Near 4 Million Offered For A's

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tommy Richardson, a minor league baseball mogul, says he has $3,375,000 cash to plunk down for the Philadelphia Athletics franchise.

"I expect to be in Chicago Tuesday to ask the American League club owners to vote me the right to buy the franchise for my group," Richardson, president of the Eastern Baseball League, said Friday.

Just before his statement came one from millionaire building contractor John McShain—who was believed to be Roy Mack's last hope to retain control of the club. McShain said he wanted out of the deal, that he's not interested, and doesn't expect to be.

But Richardson said "if they (the owners) give me the package, I can go out and sell it," adding: "These people want to know what they are buying."

He said he would keep the club in Philadelphia if it was supported. However, he said, if Philadelphia wouldn't support the A's, he would move them to one of six other cities.

He listed the cities as Toronto, Montreal, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Houston and St. Paul.

He declined to give the number or names of the men in the group "willing to buy the A's if they give me the right deal."

Brennan Gets No Help From Ex-Coach Leahy

By WILL GRIMSLEY

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Win, lose or draw, young Terry Brennan is making the Notre Dame football team his full responsibility. There's no shadowy help from the old master, Frank Leahy.

Leahy, who retired at the end of last season, may be seen at every game—yelling himself hoarse and kicking up his heels. But no second guessing. No help from the sidelines.

"I think that's the way it should be," Brennan, Notre Dame's fledgling 26-year-old coach, said today. "It's my job now. I have to do it or not do it. There can be no compromise on it."

Brennan attempts today to bring the Fighting Irish back from a 27-14 defeat at the hands of Purdue. The Irish rule 19½ points favorite over a Pittsburgh team spoiling for an upset.

Leahy is here. Friday he addressed a noon meeting of steel executives. He didn't attend the Notre Dame workout. He carefully avoided a press party Friday night at which coaches of

Central Faces Rugged Green Bay Team Sunday

The Green Bay Central Catholic Cadets will be distinct favorites when they face the Escanaba Catholic Central football team in a 2 o'clock clash here Sunday afternoon.

The game will be played on Escanaba High School's athletic field and one of the largest crowds of the season is expected.

Green Bay and Central enter the game with identical 3-1 records, but the Wisconsin visitors have notched their wins over highly-rated competition. Victims of Coach Ted Fritsch's gridders were Menominee, Madison Edge-wood and Racine St. Catherine, and none of the team were able to score on Green Bay. The loss was suffered to Green Bay West, 20-13, in the season's opening game.

Escanaba Central notched its wins over Gladstone, Canadian Soo and Calumet. The loss was to Stambaugh's Hilltoppers, one of the top teams in the Peninsula.

Stress Defense

Coach Tom St. Germain and assistant Ron Fuerstein have been running the Central gridders through extensive defensive drills this week in an effort to stop the host of good backs on the Green Bay team. Green Bay runs its attack off the T and has an exceptionally fine passer in sophomore John Fabry.

St. Germain will stick with his regular starters Sunday, and all Central players are in good physical shape. Slated for opening assignments are ends John Vadenais and Joe Juetten, tackles Alan Villeneuve and Leroy Villeneuve, guards Isadore Derkos and Mike Venne center, Arnold Henriksen, quarterback John Berthigan, halfbacks Bill Lancour and Bob Rodman and fullback Jim Greenwood.

Missing from the lineup will be Mike Gomerac who suffered a knee injury against Calumet. Front line replacement on defense will be freshman Frank Katrinski.

Far Out-Numbered

Other linemen likely to see action against the Cadets include Harold Chenier, Bob Gasman, Bob Orzel, Denis McGinn, Gerald Ford, Ron Bink and Frank Bink. Backs available will be Wayne LaFave, Cliff O'Donnell and Dan Rousseau.

The biggest obstacle Central will have to overcome is lack of depth. With only 22 players available for action, Central will be far out-numbered by Green Bay. The Cadets used 41 players when they drubbed the Menominee Maroons 46-0 recently.

The meeting is the first in football between the schools. Green Bay earned a narrow basketball decision over St. Joe's Trojans here last winter.

Southern Cal Upset By TCU Youngsters, 20-7

By JACK STEVENSON

(By The Associated Press)

Texas Christian University's Horned Frogs joined football's giant killer list today after stunning previously undefeated Southern California 20-7 in an intersectional battle Friday night at Los Angeles.

Quarterback Ronnie Clinkscale, a 175-pound senior directing the split T offense, provided the spark that ignited the unpredictable but explosive TCU club. He streaked 60 yards for a touchdown the first time he carried the ball.

Returns 58 Yards

Then after USC had tied the count, Clinkscale took the kickoff 58 yards to set up the second TCU touchdown and he tallied the third on a four-yard jaunt around end.

The TCU upset topped a slim slate of Friday night battles that also saw Miami of Florida snap to life in the final period to beat Holy Cross 26-20. Presbyterian upset Davidson 10-7, and Denver came from behind to beat Montana 19-13.

"We knew all the time we had a good ball club," said Coach Abe Martin of TCU's Southwest Conference entry. The Horned Frogs had thrown a surprise into Oklahoma's Sooners, rated No. 1 in the Associated Press poll before losing 21-16, but then lost 20-13 to an Arkansas team they were supposed to whip.

Favored By Two

Southern California, winner of three straight and ranked No. 9 in the poll, thus went into the game favored by a couple of touchdowns. But the Trojans never headed the Texans as an alert pass defense nipped scoring threats on three occasions.

Miami, the 20-point favorite, had its troubles with Holy Cross and only a 66-yard march for a last period touchdown saved the Hurricanes. Quarterback Bobofiglio raced the final 36 yards for the score.

Presbyterian upset Davidson by the unusual method of turning two early safeties and one touchdown into 10 points, end Bobby Jackson accounted for both safeties smashing through Davidson's defenses twice in the first period.

Had To Rally

Denver had to come from behind a two-touchdown deficit to stop Montana. Rusty Flarly's passing and running clicked in the second half, however, and the Pioneers tallied two touchdowns in the third period and the winning one—a 19-yard pass from Flarly to Larry Ross—in final quarter.

At this stage of the season, the first bowl game went into the records. Maryland State College routed North Carolina A and T, 34-13, in the annual Fish Bowl game at Norfolk, Va. The winners took a 27-0 halftime lead.

Tonight's top games pit Auburn against Kentucky, Mississippi against Vanderbilt, Colorado against Arizona and Clemson against Florida.

VANDERBILT'S JACK MIRON—Big Jack Miron, first string tackle on the Vanderbilt college football team, is set for his best collegiate football season. Miron, a 6-3, 210-pounder, is a senior and serving his third season on the Commodore varsity squad. The son of Sheriff and Mrs. William Miron, Jack is a former St. Joe prep athlete.

Pittsburgh Shoots For Eastern Pro Grid Lead

By BEN PHLEGAR

(By The Associated Press)

The Pittsburgh Steelers shoot for undisputed possession of first place in the Eastern Division of the National Football League tonight against the favored and unbeaten Eagles at Philadelphia.

In recent seasons the Steelers have played dead before the Eagles, losing 4 straight and 12 of their last 14. But the Pittsburgh club appears vastly improved with the addition of Johnny Lattner, the Notre Dame All America, and Walt Kiesling their new coach. Adding to their resurgence has been the return to form of quarterback Jim Finks.

The Eagles, however, maintain their favorite's role because of a stronger air attack and a strong defensive line which is quick to smother a passing attack.

Lions Face Rams

The rest of the NFL action comes Sunday with the big game at Detroit where the defending champion Lions will attempt to halt the invading Los Angeles Rams.

The Lions have won their only game and will be well rested after two weeks of open dates. The Rams were held to a 24-24 tie by San Francisco in a bruising battle Sunday.

San Francisco, with a victory to go with the Los Angeles tie, will tangle with Green Bay at Milwaukee and should fatten its record against the winless Packers.

Cleveland's once-mighty Browns are prohibitive favorites to win their first game when they meet the twice-beaten Chicago Cardinals. The Browns dropped their opener to the Eagles and were idle Sunday.

Bears Are Favored

The Baltimore Colts, who surprised the New York Giants last Saturday, travel to Chicago to meet the Bears. Both clubs have 1-1 records with the Bears favored slightly to gain the edge over a club that beat them twice last season.

The Giants make their last road appearance before their opening home game when they meet the Redskins in Washington. The Skins have scored only 14 points in losing two games but could cause trouble if Choo-Choo Justice and Jack Scarbath catch fire. The Giants have split so far, beating the Cardinals before losing at Baltimore.

Sooner Quarter Is Texas Rebel

DALLAS (AP) — Oklahoma's big red Sooners, who haven't lost a game in the last 11, put the nation's No. 1 rating on the Cotton Bowl carpet today against the determined rush of a Texas team down in the ruck of the rankings but considered at least an even chance of winning this storied intersectional battle.

Staggering split T ground attacks slash at each other and there won't be an empty seat in the house. In fact, enough were added to make it the largest football crowd in southwestern history — 76,204.

Texas, ranked fifteenth in the national poll, will try to win the first game over Oklahoma in three years and the second in seven. Oklahoma takes the field against Texas for the 49th time in 55 years with a sophomore quarterback, a Texas who is turning against his state for the day. He's Jim Harris of Terrell, Tex., who stepped in aptly a couple of weeks ago when the brilliant Gene Calame went out with an injury. Starting this season, Harris was third-string quarterback.

Strangely, Texas is a mild favorite in the money. If things go according to the script the Longhorns should win by about a point.

The weather is due to be warm and cloudy without much chance of rain.

Louisville Has Chance To End Little Series

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Bill Werle, seasoned by major league experience, will have a chance to wrap up the Little World Series for Louisville of the American Association tonight when he opposes strikeout artist Jack Meyer of the International League's Syracuse Chiefs.

The Colonels from Louisville hold a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series as the result of a 14-9 triumph Friday night in which they connected with two grand slam homers, scored eight runs in one inning and then held off a 7-run Syracuse rally in the ninth.

Werle and Meyer each has won a series game, both in Louisville. Louisville's grand slammer were hit by Norm Zaichin, who drove in five runs in the free-for-all, and Pete Daley.

Limit On Wheat May Be Revised

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration may recommend that the next Congress ease production controls on small farms which grow wheat for their own use as livestock and poultry feed.

These restrictions are encountering bitter farmer protests and court fights in some areas of the Midwest and Northeast.

Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse said the department will look into the restrictions and possibly come up with proposals that Congress amend crop control laws to allow greater freedom in the production of wheat for use as feed on farms where it is grown.

Under the law, farmers may not plant more than 15 acres of wheat when federal marketing quotas are in effect without being subject to penalty rates equivalent to about half the current market price of the grain.

Morse said he had been surprised to find that most of the small farmers who have protested against this restriction believed it to be a regulation promulgated by the present administration although actually it has been a provision of farm law since 1938.

"There appears to be some justification," Morse said in an interview, "for the argument that a farmer should be free to grow wheat for livestock and poultry feed for his own farm."

Outsiders Blamed For Bad Name Of New York City

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Is Manhattan the dirtiest and noisiest metropolitan area in the world?

If it is, you can't blame the natives. It's the outsiders who are giving us a bad name.

Let's look at the record: Last year author Edna Ferber, and Mrs. Wendell Willkie agreed New York City was the dirtiest city in the world, and Miss Ferber even described it as "a scab on the face of our country."

Noisiest In World?

This week Herbert Morrison, former British foreign secretary, told our mayor that New York City was "probably the noisiest city in the world." He complained particularly about the horn-toting outside his hotel on Fifth avenue, and remarked that Paris had curbed its taxi horns, so had London, and implied we might do well to follow suit.

All these critics, while directing their barbs at New York City, actually were commenting on the situation on the Island of Manhattan, which is the smallest of New York's five boroughs.

Admittedly, Manhattan is often noisy and sometimes gets pretty dirty. But why?

My theory is that it is largely the work of visitors who come here and fail to treat Manhattan with the same consideration they show their own communities. Isn't it human for a guy to blow off more steam away from his own home than in it?

Refuse By the Ton

Manhattan has about two million residents. But each work day some three to four million other people come here to earn a living, attend a convention, or go on a spree.

It is a known fact that the two million residential Manhattanites are peaceful, culture-loving, law-abiding citizens who spend most of their spare time going to art galleries or tramping on bird-watching jaunts through Central Park.

But how can they keep their 300-year-old community neat and clean when three to four million savage suburbanites and hinterland barbarians swarm into town every day, littering the streets and pavements with chewing gum, cigar butts, cigaret stubs and torn bus transfers?

But we make a game try. Some 4,500,000 tons of refuse are picked up each year (in the entire city) by the Department of Sanitation's 14,000 eager beaver collectors at a cost of 68 million dollars. Our white wings are convinced some people drive into the city just to throw their garbage on the streets.

Growth Is Noisy

Now about all that noise. What causes it? It stands to reason that when it comes to daytime noise our subdued, orderly two million residents can't equal in volume the sounds created by those three to four million outsiders.

As a matter of fact most of our local people just like to stand around and listen to the odd sounds the visitors make in their quest of fun.

We do plead guilty to quite a bit of industrial cacophony. Manhattan is a city that has never quit growing. It can't spread out, so it climbs toward the sun.

You have to make a lot of noise when you tear down the buildings of the past and erect steel and stone business temples of the future.

But this is again done to please the outsiders. Most of the towering new office buildings and air-conditioned apartment houses will be inhabited by folks who never drew their first breath in Manhattan. Many say they don't like to live here — but where else can they earn so much lovely money?

SKETCHING CLUB—The Canvas and Coffee Club, which has devoted each Wednesday of the past summer to outdoor sketching sessions at local scenes, recently exhibited their work. Centered on the easel is the club's "Picture of the Hour," a local scene painted by Mrs. H. D. Brackett. In the picture are the club members. They are, left to right: Miss Esther Palmer, Mrs. M. R. Oslund, Miss Laura Brown, Mrs. W. J. Anthony and Mrs. H. D. Brackett (Daily Press Photo)

Outdoor Sketching Club Portrays Local Scenes

Delineation in color of familiar scenes in the Escanaba area with a view of making their creations as near as possible "reasonable facsimiles" of what they copy and the pleasure they derive from this effort is the chief objective of an art club started in Escanaba a few months ago.

The organization, which the members have chosen to call the "Canvas and Coffee Club," was launched last spring. All of the members had been students at last winter's art class conducted by the adult education department of Escanaba Public schools and they felt that the good work that had been done at that time should be continued. At the outset they decided that each clear Wednesday afternoon during the summer should be dedicated to some sketching excursion and they have faithfully carried out that resolve.

None of the women who make up the membership of this club claims to be an artist. They love to draw and paint and feel that they are using their understanding of color, tone and harmony as a basis for making their sketches fitting objects of adornment.

Exhibit Work

Their summer's work was recently placed on exhibition in the spacious and well lighted garage at the home of Mrs. M. R. Oslund, 2405 Lake Shore Drive.

There were 104 sketches, all in water color, on display. With the exception of a few pictures of fruit, flowers and other still objects (painted on days when outdoor work was inadvisable) all of the pictures were of familiar scenes in the area. Notable among these were sketches of the sand-sucker operating near Ludington park, the Stonington lighthouse, the paper mill dam near Highway US-2 and a Cedar River street scene.

This work was under no personal direction, each member being strictly on her own. "But when our work, or some phase of it, is completed, we pass judgment, nobody's feelings is spared, and the picking of pieces is usually very thorough," one of the members explained.

Criticism Effective

This practice of frank criticism has brought good results. It was readily apparent after viewing the pictures, which ones were painted at the outset of the season and which were finished later. Sketches made shortly before the exhibit showed marked improvement in finesse and depth of color over those made earlier in the season.

"The name of our club is perhaps misleading," one of the members stated. "We haven't as yet, as a club, done any work requiring the use of canvas." All of the members have, however, done considerable work in oils and it is the club's objective to include work in this medium this coming winter.

They will continue to devote each Wednesday to art and the members have hopes of spending several more afternoons on sketching expeditions before winter proper sets in. They are, naturally, anxious to catch the brilliant autumn colors before they are gone.

Members of the club are Mrs. Harry Brackett, Mrs. M. R. Oslund, Miss Laura Brown, Miss Esther Palmer and Mrs. W. J. Anthony.

Boom Predicted In Lake Shipping

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—"In the span of a generation the St. Lawrence Seaway will have a tremendous impact. It will provide a new outlet for the dynamic energies of the great Midwest area."

John C. Beukema of Muskegon, an advisory board member of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp., made the prediction Thursday at the West Michigan Tourist and Resort Assn. convention. He told delegates "by extremely conservative estimate" the seaway will carry 37,500,000 tons of cargo in its first year of operation in 1959 and boost that figure to 47,500,000 tons by 1965.

Beukema said Army engineers promised estimates within 30 days on channel deepening costs for the Detroit and St. Clair Rivers.

Beukema said principal products to be shipped on the seaway, in order of their volume, will be iron ore, grain, coal and petroleum.

He predicted a large expansion of shipbuilding and said the Holland-American lines told him the firm was building a ship expressly for seaway traffic.

Prize Hereford Bull Sold For $83,500

By Edward F. Fisher

PONTIAC (AP)—TR Zato Heir 262nd, sire of the Hi Point Farms Hereford herd, was purchased at auction by a Kansas rancher Thursday for the highest price ever paid for a Hereford bull—$83,500.

Sale of the 1,700-pound, 2-year-old animal was the climax of the day's bidding in the sale of Edward F. Fisher's 600 registered Herefords at his farm near Romeo. Fisher is expected to gross nearly one million dollars before the auction ends Saturday.

Fisher, former manager of the Fisher Body Division of General Motors Corp., is disposing of his prize-winning herd and his 2,500-acre farm to make way for a new 4,000-acre Ford Motor Co. proving grounds.

The $83,500 was bid by Warren Wood of the Woody Hereford Ranch at North Kansas City, Kan. Fisher began breeding the herd as a hobby in 1929. It has won numerous top awards in state and national livestock exhibitions.

First Allied Troops Evacuate Trieste

TRIESTE (AP)—The first Allied contingent left Trieste territory Thursday as British and American military officers shifted their departure plans into high gear.

A sizeable advance American party pulled out in a 12-truck convoy for Leghorn, Italy. All 5,000 Allied troops are expected to be gone by at least Oct. 26, in accordance with the Italy-Yugoslav agreement Tuesday to return the present British-American occupied zone A to Italy.

Garden

Word was received by Edward Joque of the death of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Henry Joque, of Sault Ste. Marie Sunday. Relatives attending the funeral from Garden were Walter, Stanley and Leonard Joque.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sketel and Mr. and Mrs. William Serena left Sunday for their homes at Chicago after spending a week at the William Hermes cottage at Van's Harbor. Mr. Serena played third base for the Chicago Cubs this past season.

Miss Fern Mellon of Powers is staying at the home of her sister, Mrs. Virgil Winter, this week.

Mrs. Nick Thennes Sr. is recuperating at her home from surgery she underwent recently.

Paper Bag Of Pop Holds $100 Instead

CINCINNATI (AP)—All she wanted was a hamburger and a soft drink to go, the woman motorist told the drive-in car top.

Soon two paper bags appeared on the customer ledge.

The customer opened her packages at home. In one was the hamburger; in the other—no pop, but $100 in receipts.

"Send my drink and you can have the money," she telephoned the restaurant.

The restaurant didn't say who the woman was and didn't explain how the mixup occurred. But service on the call was prompt.

Costly Customer

CHICAGO (AP)—A "customer" chased two boisterous boys out of Mrs. Bertha Wians' grocery with the reproof: "You're making too much noise."

Before Mrs. Wians could thank him, the man whipped out a pistol, robbed her of $80 and fled.
